Register to vote

Johnson & Wales is making it possible for students to register to vote. Tomorrow there will be stations set up around campus that will have the necessary forms and information.

Generally anyone can register to vote although for some students you should verify that you will not lose your financial aid if you register here in Rhode Island. That information will also be included at these booths. It is important that students who have made Providence their home while at school become involved in the area. You have the right to have a say in local politics if you wish to take it.

Locations:
- AIRPORT CENTER EAST (ACE): 9AM-4PM
- BUSINESS BOOKSTORE: 12PM-5PM
- CAPOMACCHIO LIBRARY: 9AM-4PM
- CHESTNUTS: 9AM-2PM
- DAVID FRIEDMAN CENTER: 7AM-3PM

Corporal Shai Mendoza speaks to the Freshmans about safety.

Common sense key to safety

by Carol Rizzikallah
Staff Writer

Reading and Success Skills is a required freshman course designed to improve a student's reading, comprehension and vocabulary. It is also attempting to make students more aware of the dangers around them, so hopefully potentially bad situations can be avoided.

On Tuesday, September 18, classes were held in Xavier Auditorium for a lecture on urban safety. The event was held by the Department of Campus Safety and Security in order to make students who may have never experienced city living feel more at home.

Corporal Shai Mendoza, Department of Safety and Security, began the lecture by enforcing the point that the officers on campus are real people, most with families of their own. They are not "bad guys" looking to bust students continuously.

Bad areas of downtown Providence were mentioned in relation to each dormitory with warnings to avoid these sections. Students were advised to travel in numbers (three or more people), to stay out of alleys at all times, to avoid carrying large amounts of cash, limit the amount of jewelry worn in public and to follow their instincts at all times.

Other advice included what to do if you got stuck somewhere without transportation to your residence. There are several options if this occurs. One is a transportation service called 3DT that runs downtown between the Residence Halls every 20 minutes. (Sunday-Wednesday from 7pm-12am and Thursday-Saturday from 7pm-2am if you are not downtown, or you are lost, or 3DT is not running, you can

J&W programs certified outstanding

by Frank Testani
Staff Writer

The Graduate School and Teacher Education Division received a five year, unconditional accreditation from Rhode Island Department of Higher Education. The accreditation was facilitated due to the efforts of Clifton Boyle, Director of Student Services for the Teacher Education Division and Graduate Studies; Dr. Louis D’Abrasca, Dean of Teacher Education and Graduate Studies and Dr. Edward Silva, Associate Professor of Teacher Education and Graduate School.

"The accreditation process was a year and a half," said D’Abrasca. It was the result of a 14 month process including a 300 page self-study. The process also included a visit to J&W by the accreditation team sent by J.Troy Earhart, Commissioner of Rhode Island Department of Education.

"It was my decision to grant a full five-year approval through July, 1995, for the programs in business education, marketing & education and vocational education service," said Earhart.

The new standards approved by the commissioner include strengthened student admission, retention, and exit requirements. They also require that teacher education candidates participate in clinical experiences with a variety of students, especially those identified as socially and educationally disadvantaged.

The Teacher and Graduate School division, was approved "outstanding" and J&W is now progressed to be the only university/school in Rhode Island to be granted accreditation at this time. Graduates of this program are also certified in 33 other states across the country.

Distinguished Visiting Chef to lecture on

Tomorrow
Marcel Desaulniers, certified executive chef and co-owner of Trellis Restaurant in Williamsburg, VA, will be at J&W tomorrow.

He will present a cooking demonstration that highlights the unique combination of contemporary dining within a colonial setting that has made the Trellis Restaurant famous.

Desaulniers was born in Woonsocket, RI. He was graduated from the Culinary Institute of America (CIA) in 1965. He has been honored by prestigious magazines such as The Cooks Magazine, Food & Wine and Restaurants & Institutions.

Use the library

The HarborSide Library is a special collection almost solely devoted to Culinary Arts Material. The Library also contains some basic hotel management and ProTech material.

The collection itself contains between 4000-5000 books ranging from general cookbooks (ethnic and national cuisine, wines and spirits).

The Fritzsche collection, which is kept in the glass display cases, contains books dating back to the 1698's. Also, the video collection contains more than 70 titles related to foodservice and the culinary arts. Presently, we receive 38 culinary magazines.

Limited amounts of current material from these periodicals are included in the vertical file and the library has two photocopy machines for students use. Copies are ten cents each. We do not provide change for our photocopiers.

It should be noted that the material in the HarborSide Library is "Room use only"; that is the material does not circulate outside the library. If you need any assistance, a library aide is always on duty to help you.

NOTICES

Representatives of student clubs wishing to participate in Family Weekend should contact Judy Turchetta by Thursday. You can reach her at 456-4711 or in A307.

Birth control—shared responsibility

Until the advent of birth control pill, contraception was almost exclusively the men's responsibility among unmarried people. Condoms and withdrawal were the common forms of birth control. Men controlled these methods and assumed responsibility when they failed by marrying the women or paying for an illegal abortion.

Now, in the '90s, the pendulum is coming to rest in the middle ground. Birth control is no longer considered the sole responsibility of one person. It is now recognized as a co-responsibility.

To Your Health

By openly discussing birth control prior to sexual relations, partners do more than prevent pregnancy. Such sharing enhances mutual trust and increases the likelihood of using the chosen birth control method successfully.

Some of us feel that raising the topic of birth control in an intimate situation interferes with spontaneity and romance. This is a myth that needs to be dispelled. When unprotected intercourse is imminent, the possibility of a pregnancy does cross a woman's mind, disrupting spontaneity. If she is protected, then she wonders why her partner has assumed she is "taking care of it." Men too, are concerned about the responsibility of an unplanned pregnancy and feel better knowing their partner is protected.

It is when birth control is not discussed that spontaneity goes out the window and mutual respect is undermined. Spontaneity is better preserved, in both casual and long-term relationships, when birth control is acknowledged as a shared responsibility.

WHICH METHOD DO I USE?

Choosing a birth control method, like choosing a sexual partner, depends mostly on individual preference: What is right for one person may not work for another. More importantly, what works now may not be appropriate later on, as lifestyles and relationships change. Therefore, birth control methods need to be reevaluated from time-to-time.

Deciding which method to use can be a confusing process. Things to consider when making a choice are effectiveness, personal risk factors (family and personal health histories), product safety, side effects, convenience, and lifestyle.

Student Health Service is a good first step in sorting all the options. Different methods are explained; questions are answered and referrals will be made.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Last Tuesday evening, an assault occurred outside Stephens Hall. A young man suffered a head injury; no assailant was implicated.

Although this man does not attend Johnson & Wales, the close proximity of the incident to Stephens Hall upset several students and parents. The rumors which spread, even though they were unfounded, did not help the situation.

Safety is very important to Johnson & Wales. We have security guards in all buildings and entrances to the Residence Halls are monitored. Additional members of Safety and Security are also available and the Providence police will respond quickly to distress calls.

The success of the Johnson & Wales safety program depends on our work as a University community. Attendance at safety programs and concern for one another are safety's critically important.

Johnson & Wales is an urban school that does not have a central campus. Being spread out across the city means that we are involved in urban problems and we need to be aware of our personal safety. Crime is not only an urban problem; it is a problem all over the country and everyone needs to work together to decrease the chance of a student being affected by it. Walk in groups, make sure people know where you are and where you are going and talk to your Residence Assistant (RA) if you have concerns.

We want to make your stay pleasant and safe.

Please feel free to talk to your RAs, your Residence Directors, and our office if you still have questions.

Michael Pasquarella
Dean of Students, Business/ Hospitality

Activities nights exceed expectations
by Sheila Walsh
Staff Writer

Over forty five J&W clubs got together last Tuesday and Wednesday for the annual Student Activities Nights. "Student Activities Night gives students a chance to get involved. Clubs are here to sell themselves so that students will join," said Amy Fortier, Clubs Council President.

Some of the unique selling techniques used to draw attention to the clubs included: The Wine Tasting club had a wine display set up, the Sports Clubs spread out their equipment and the Fashion Club used a TV monitor to describe accessories.

Joining clubs at Johnson & Wales is a learning as well as a social experience. Meeting new people and making new friends provide a better atmosphere in which to learn. If you did not attend Student Activities Night it's not too late to join a club. The Student Activities Office in Plantations Hall can give you all the information you need. The number is 456-1196.

SCCR CORNER

What a difference the Transportation Department has made!!! The famous Johnson & Wales blue buses will take you anywhere you need on campus. SCR would like to thank and compliment the Transportation Department for their continued efforts to accommodate the students and listen to their needs.

Transportation was one of SCR's focus points last year. Last spring, two of SCR's members met with Norman Chase, Director of Transportation and the Transportation committee. We delivered the students concerns about the late buses and the insufficient schedules. They listened and worked to make improvements.

We are glad that the Transportation Department initiative has lead to many positive changes. Earlier this year all through registration representatives of the Transportation Department gave out bus schedules at all registration sights. The schedules this year are better than ever. They include a master schedule and others that detail schedules for the separate residential halls.

Another schedule that was given reflects a great service the transportation department has started— campus to campus shuttle that operates every 15 minutes from 7:00AM to 6:45PM, between downtown (Chestnuts) and Harborside.

In conclusion, we appreciate all the efforts of the Transportation Department—keep up the great work.

Students — your voices contribute to these changes, keep sending us your concerns.

Dear Editor:

This fall Johnson & Wales University, as well as other universities with yet another record enrollment and the largest population of resident students ever, numbering over 3,400.

A number of resident students have expressed concerns about housing assignments as well as the range of accommodations in residence halls. I realize that the reorganization of the Residential Life Department, for which I am responsible, resulted in several instances of dissatisfaction in initial housing assignments. The staff has worked very hard during these first few weeks to alleviate and already approved a significant number of room and hall assignments.

Several students who have requested hall changes to Regency East and the Renaissance have expressed their displeasure in not being eligible for assignment to those facilities. These two properties are not owned by Johnson & Wales and are shared with other occupants who are not students at the University. The management of these two buildings has been assumed by the Department of National Student Organizations (NSO) and they are responsible to both the property owners and the University for operating these properties. Only business majors who were recruited by NSO and who received NSO Scholarships are now eligible for assignment in these two facilities.

As our students settle into these apartment complexes and get to know the other residents in an atmosphere of mutual respect and trust, we hope to work with the property owners in easing the rules now in effect.

As we begin the new academic year, the school and Residential Life staff is eager to do the best job possible in meeting the needs of all resident students. Please communicate your ideas and concerns to your hall staff. Later this year the Department of Residential Life will be announcing a new resident hall reservation system, which we are confident will receive enthusiastic support among resident students.

Vice-President of Student Affairs

...Teacher education

"There has been tremendous recognition in Administration and the Business and Educational Communities," said D'Abrosca, "Students are now getting the finest quality teacher education program for their tuition dollars."

"I like the program because there is a small student/faculty ratio which is beneficial. I want to be certified for the school, my piece of mind and my credibility. It's a good program. I'm enjoying it," said Mr. Calvert, a student enrolled in the program who is working towards his certification in food service education.

The Teacher Education program was started in 1985 with an enrollment of 30 students. Shortly after it began computer education and business and food services were added. In 1986, the Graduate School began which lead to Johnson & Wales taking University status in 1988.

Today, the programs now have 410 students enrolled: 110 students in the teacher education programs and 300 in the graduate (Masters' Degree) program. The teacher education program is a four year Bachelor of Science degree that prepares students to teach general business in high school and college. Students may specialize in accounting, business administration, computers/business applications and management.

"On behalf of the outstanding faculty and administration, we welcome any interested students. We are located in the Harborside Academic Center (HAC)," said D'Abrosca.

Open House a great success

The highlight of the Open House was an aerobic class demo instructed by Karen Sevting. Twenty students and staff had a great time exercising to Rock & Roll with low impact aerobics. We hope you have signed up to join Sevting's class which starts tomorrow at 6:30pm in the Culinary gym.

Tonight aerobic classes start at the Xavier Gym, from 6:30-7:30 with Charlotte Oso. It's never too late to sign up and make your payment of $10.00 for 8 weeks of classes. Payment accepted at the Fitness Center or the Student Activities Office in Plantations Hall.

Other fitness news is that the fitness achievers for the month of September will be determined this week. Anyone who has regular attendance at the Center and has attained some of their fitness goals. Prizes will be awarded to two members.

New programs in jeopardy

During the first tri Johnson & Wales is offering some new programs which will be offered at different sites. For the first time this year, karate will be offered at the Culinary Campus on Monday and Wednesday from 7:30-8:30pm. (This is in addition to the Xavier times from 6-7pm on the same days)

Another new program starting this week is the 2 on 2 volleyball tournament. This game requires two players on a side with an optional extra player for substitutions. The rules of this game are the same as the rules for Intramural team volleyball. These games will be played on Thursdays in the Xavier Gym starting at 7:30pm.

The first and final new program for the first tri is the 3 on 3 basketball tournament. This is played by the rules set down in the Johnson & Wales sports handbook. (Available from Student Activities, Culinary Gym and Xavier Gym)

The game is played on half court. The imaginary "check line" will be the top of the foul circle (key). Each team will consist of three players with a maximum of one substitute. Each game will consist of two halves each played for eight minutes of a running clock. Any tie will result in a two minute running clock overtime period.

Time-outs shall be called by the referee and only for injuries or special circumstances. All common, technical and personal fouls shall be counted as a team foul. On the fifth team foul, a bonus shall be awarded for the remainder of the games. An individual player cannot foul out but can be ejected by the official. After the fifth foul a single foul shot is awarded along with possession of the ball to the offened team.

The new programs are offered for both men and women. The length of the tournaments are determined by the number of rosters received by the due date. (Which was the 24th of September) At the time of this writing (9/26/90) only two 3 on 3 basketball rosters and one 2 on 2 volleyball rosters were received.

If the new programs are not supported by the students than they will be reduced or cut out altogether.

These programs are a result of student requests for an increase of the intramural programs. So your (students) support is necessary, at this level, if we are to increase the program to a higher level of competition.

Intramural committee formed

This year the intramural department has decided to try something new to better serve the University community. This year we will start a sports committee to deal with the various aspects of the intramural department.

In years past the responsibility of the sports department rested on the shoulders of one or two people. These people were in charge of coordinating the rules and coming up with new activities.

This committee will have the responsibility to update rules and discuss issues concerning J&W sports. They will also serve as a judiciary committee in cases of protest or suspensions imposed during a game.

If you have any questions or ideas please contact Hollie Walton, Director of Intramurals at 456-1465 or stop in the Culinary Gym.

Hockey club heats up!
Joins NECHA league

The J&W hockey club (Griffins) was accepted into the Northeastern Collegiate Hockey Association (NECHA) for the 1990-91 season. J&W was placed in Division Two-South with Springfield College (SC), United States Coast Guard Academy (USCGA), Central Connecticut State University (CCSU) and Clark University (CU).

The team coaches are Richard J. Coppegee, Jr., Assistant Professor in Baking and Pastry Arts (456-1130) and Michael Pasquarella, Dean of Students, Business/ Hospitality (456-1109).

The season begins on November 3 and ends in February. The teams are scheduled with the Griffins playing everyone in their division twice (one home, one away) and the members of Division Two-North once (either home or away). The teams associated with Division Two-North are New Hampshire Technological Institute (NHTI), Franklin Pierce College (FPC), Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Gordon College (GC) and Emerson College (EC).

Playoffs will consist of a division cross-over with the first place team of one division playing the second place team of the other. The winner of those two games will advance to the championship games for the Division title.

The Griffin roster allows for a 30 players with 27 forwards and three goalies. The requirements for all players are: full-time student, age 25 and under, $30 fee (only charged to the final 30 players) and equipment. All eligible players must have joined the team before Tuesday, October 16. Contact the coaches for more information.
