One year later, paperwork is passed
Non-discrimination policy now includes lesbians, gays

by Brandy Baran
Staff Writer

Last April, the Gay Lesbian Bisexual Alliance (GLBA) along with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), asked the administration to rewrite the university’s non-discrimination policy to include sexual orientation. They were turned away with the response that including sexual orientation is not required by state law.

Dissatisfied with this, the groups took their concerns to the Undergraduate Student Assembly, the student government. The Senate and Cabinet agreed unanimously that sexual orientation should be included in the non-discrimination policy.

USA approached the administration about rewriting the policy about one year later, on February 21, 1995, the policy change was made.

"Normally we follow state law," Dr. Yena commented, "However, there were many student organizations involved in the request-USA made it an all inclusive request." Dean of Academic and Student Affairs agreed that reviewing the university policy would have place and practiced.

"But it possibly is a bigger deal than administration may believe." Many students gathered outside of University Hall awaiting this decision. One student, Jenn Gerdin, stated, "It’s great! And about time that they recognize that this is an issue that needs to be addressed, and should have been a long time ago. We had no where to go before because we didn’t have this— it’s sort of a security blanket. We now have something to turn to beside each other."

This decision reflects the trends in America and higher education said President of USA, Bob Hosier, "A lot of schools are moving toward this moving ahead." The rewritten policy will be in the 1995-'96 Student Handbook that is distributed each year.

Dean Calabro concluded, "Change, if done in the right way can be achieved. That’s something for us all to remember, both now and down the road.

California- a wonderful spring break alternative

by Doris Sock
Staff Writer

Aah! The moment that everyone has been waiting for! Spring Break! You know, every year, I've watched my friends go off to someplace exotic like Cancun, Florida or the Virgin Islands, but me, I've never gone anywhere for spring break. This year, however, I got to go to one of the most exciting and most visited places in the United States- California. Now for anyone who doesn't know, California has two parts- northern and southern. They are about as similar as France and Egypt. Southern California is filled with never ending hills, tall mountains, and glittering beaches. It's one of the only places in the world that you can snow ski, go to the hot beach, or ride through the hills on horseback all in one day. There are many things to do in California. The tourists of course, love to visit Hollywood and Beverly Hills, hoping for a glimpse of their favorite star. (Any Californian knows that most of the stars don't live in Hollywood or even frequent there.) But you can shop on Rodeo Drive and go to the Hard Rock Cafe for lunch.

If you're looking for an amusement park, California holds Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, Universal Studios, Six Flags Magic Mountain, and Sea World. The best part of California, though, is the beaches. You can hit almost every beach via the Pacific Coast Highway. The beaches are no ordinary beaches, the sand is pure, the water is aqua, and the surf is fantastic. Surfers usually rule the great beaches like Santa Monica, Newport Beach, and Zuma Beach. These have the highest waves and an exorbitant amount of dolphins. No matter what beach you go to, the chances of seeing surfers and dolphins is about 100%.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, please keep our hands and arms inside the vehicle at all times and no flashing gang signs, we're not entering South L.A." This is the only place in L.A. that I don't recommend that you go. Well this ends our tour of Southern California, so let's travel north a bit. Northern California is very agricultural. Fields of fruit and vegetables can be seen for miles. There are three main cities in Northern California- Sacramento is the state capital. It's a great place to go visit art museums, old buildings, and shop.

San Francisco is a beautiful city. Trolley cars line the main streets of sidewalk cafes, shops, and fog. San Francisco sits on a beautiful bay where people are always seen boating or windsurfing. It sports many fine Universities such as U.C. Davis, University of San Francisco. The parks are always filled with college students walk. (This doesn't include the many demonstrations that take place). It also has a great nightlife.

The last city is Lake Tahoe which is near to the mountains on the east. Half of Lake Tahoe is in California while the other half is in Nevada. This is a great family vacationing spot. You can boat on the clear blue lake, horseback ride, or go to the Nevada side and gamble, since gambling is illegal in California.

In California there is everything. If you miss the roller coasters, don't worry, there will be an earthquake soon. During the summer, there are many brush fires and if it rains, mudslides. There is always one idiot who builds a three million dollar house on the edge of a cliff. Bye Bye house!

If this isn't enough for you, come during a drought, so you can experience water rationing.

Even though the two parts of California are very different, it is a great vacationing spot, but don't forget the suntan lotion. Happy Spring Break!

Fa-arr-rr ou-out!

JWU Students in Sweden

Greetings fellow Providence campus students. Hello, my name is Fred Johnson, a sophomore from Corpus Christi, Texas, majoring in International Business. This past winter term I studied at the Johnson & Wales Sweden campus, which was a great learning experience, aside from the regular academic coursework. I found Stockholm to be an interesting city. I was very much aware that it would be cold, the people would be unfriendly, and that everyone was blonde. Also, I had no idea about their culture or their reaction to foreigners. But soon enough I found Swedish people to be very welcoming.

I met people everywhere that I went because people would just come up to me and start talking. Once I established that I was an American and had no idea of what they were saying, they'd speak English and ask many questions about America. The Swedish Johnson & Wales campus is extremely small, which gives it more of a family atmosphere. Many of the students made it a point to make sure you feel at home. JWU, Sweden is run by Lowry Jerund, Harry Carlson, and Phil Farrell, who have always been there to help out. The Swedish dishes are run by Lousy Jerund, Harry Carlson, and Phil Farrell, who have always been there to help out. Let me tell you, that I was one of my first dates. For Christmas, they took me and some family friends out to the different types of Swedish dishes that are served on Christmas Eve. We stopped at the different types of Swedish dishes that are served on Christmas Eve.

As the festivities came to a close, we had a good time. It was my first Christmas away from home. It was more of the same American tradition. The festivities carried on until the next day when another one of my friends invited me to her house for New Year's Eve. I was able to make new friends, but they also knew how to have fun. It was truly a unique experience. I feel bad that I am used to. Once the New Year is over, you need to go out and try to make new friends, but they also knew how to have fun.

Every year, the students needed a break from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. I have always gone to the Providence campus to see my friends. But in Sweden I had the chance to see my friends from other countries. It was a great way to make new friends and to see that there was more to life than just being an American.

Sincerely,
Fred G. Johnson, Jr.

FHA/HERO& FFA: leading the way to the future
by: Doris Sock
Parliamentarian

Many clubs, today, have a national week sometime during the year. February 12-18 was National FHA/HERO week. FHA/HERO week is a week set aside each year to increase public knowledge of the organization. Future Homemakers of America/Home Related Economics Occupation was founded in 1945 on the basis of leadership and the family as a basic unit of society. The organization's seven purposes are:

- to provide opportunities for personal development and preparation for adult life.
- to strengthen the function of a family as a basic unit of society.
- to encourage democracy through cooperative action in the home and the community.
- to promote greater understanding between youths and adults.
- to provide opportunities for making decisions and for assuming responsibilities.
- to prepare for multiple roles of men and women in today's society.
- to promote home economics, home economics careers and related occupations. The Johnson & Wales chapter of FHA/HERO is combined with FFA, another leadership organization to form FWA/FHA/HERO & FFA. Our emphasis is on leadership and community service, along with providing enjoyable social activities for the members. This year for FHA/HERO&FFA week, students put together two fundraisers which included singing telegram, on the weekend before Valentine's Day, sung by three members plus a rose sale on Valentine's Day. The club also held a social which included a movie/pizza night at Papa Gino's and then to the Seekonk Theatres. All three were a big success. In the future, FHA/HERO&FFA has planned a trip to Freeport, Maine which will include a trip to the outlet shops and a dinner in a local restaurant. They are also planning a white water rafting/camping trip weekend where students will be able to hike, camp, and go white water rafting.

The next community service project will be a March for Dimes Walk-a-thon to be held on April 20th. A car wash is also planned as a future fundraiser project.

If you would like to join FHA/HERO&FFA or have any questions please call an officer or Marie Bernardo X4695.

This year officers are:

Vice President: Henry Lewandowski 4560
