Student Union a Must for University Community

With the exception of the Harborstroke Recreational Center pictured below, the Citizens Bank Center For Student Involvement, located on the Downtown campus, may be the only facility specifically designed for students involvement within the University.

48 out of 69 students labeled student lounge space as a "must have."

Student Affairs Office Survey, 2001

In September of 1998 Johnson & Wales University hired a consulting team to develop a student center needs assessment and program plan due to a lack of interest from the student body at that time. Dialogue of a possible Student Center on the downtown campus has decreased slowly since then.

In a survey conducted by Student Affairs in April of 2001, 48 out of 69 students labeled student lounge space as a "must have." Seventeen students chose the option, "like to have." Only four chose the idea as not needed.

In addition, 53 out of 69 students chose a food court as another "must have," as well as computer access areas.

"Although not scientific, I think this survey gives good feedback. Clearly, everyone wants a food court," explains Michelle Delaney, Director of Student Activities. Delaney was a major player in the creation of the survey.

The University administration, particularly President John Bowen, would like to see a Student Center as well.

J&W changes in 2002 lead to a new J&W

By Dita Papaloukas

The year 2002 marks advancement in the Johnson & Wales University future with the announcement of the opening of the Charlotte Campus in Fall 2004. "Our decision to open a campus in Charlotte is a significant and strategic move to position the University for continued growth and success in the decades ahead," said University President John A. Yova. The construction of the new campus, will however lead to other southern campuses to close. The students scheduled to enroll in 2004 at Norfolk and Charleston campuses both will be combining into the new Charlotte campus.

The Charleston, South Carolina and the Norfolk, Virginia campuses would be experiencing growth limitations in the next several years. Johnson & Wales University, consequently, decided to not only combine both campuses to a more central location, but also build the University in a city where J&W could grow.

"While our Norfolk and Charleston locations are successful and quality campuses..."

J&W welcomes new director for Safety & Security

By John Ormes

Johnson & Wales University recently announced the appointment of former R.I. State Police officer, Major Mike Quinn to lead the Safety and Security department on campus.

The newly appointed director, who received a bachelor's degree from Roger Williams University, and a Masters degree from Anna Maria College in Massachusetts, will oversee the highly visible department that is responsible for the protection of students, faculty, staff and University property.

Major Quinn possesses a very impressive background detailed with 24 years in the law enforcement area. Quinn was once the third ranking officer with the Rhode Island State Police, who are branded for their traditions of excellence and professionalism. He was the Chief Administrative Officer with the division; his duties were the management of all administrative tasks. Prior to that, his experience was with internal affairs and professional standards of the division. In addition, he experienced some time with the operations section of the department.

Johnson & Wales University has placed their faith in Quinn to provide assistance toward the strategic mission of the department, as well as the University. "We are very confident that there will be improvements to the department," states Arthur Gallagher, Vice President of Student Affairs. Gallagher continues, "He was a superior candidate for a department which is very important on campus. Gallagher is confident that when students, faculty and staff call upon Quinn for assistance and service he will be there for them in that time of need.

Major Quinn has been

A male resident student was arrested at Edmund Hall by East Providence Police and charged with 2nd degree sexual assault. As a result of the same incident, a female resident student was also arrested at Edmund Hall by East Providence Police and charged with simple assault.

November 16, 2002
A female and a male resident student reported their rooms at Snowden Hall entered as they were sleeping. The intruder who had a plastic knife in his hand shook the female and told her to keep quiet. The female fled from the room and yelled for help. The male student awoke and observed the male suspect standing over him with the plastic knife. The suspect was caught, but as he was being escorted to the lobby, the suspect ran out of the building. The female student notified that some cash was missing.

The suspect is described as a Hispanic male, dark skin, approximately 5'10" tall, in his twenties, short dark curly hair, with a chain strap style beard, red eyes, long nose, with a brown freckle under his right eye, wearing a dark gray hooded sweatshirt and jeans.

Providence Police were notified.

Good attendance has been proven to have a direct relation to good grades, and personal success.

The Johnson & Wales attendance policy is one such issue. Having an opinion is one thing, but are the administration, faculty, and students truly in accord with one another regarding attendance? Let's begin by clearing up any misconceptions about the official attendance policy. Most policies concerning the University are printed in the student handbook and are available to any student who wants one. These handbooks are conveniently located in the Students Academic Services Office. Page 58 of the student handbook reads, "the purpose of the University's attendance policy is to help students develop a businesslike attitude toward their studies during their University experience!" The handbook also goes on to strongly recommend that each student attend every class.

"If you feel you are encountering problems pertaining to your safety, we are going to have an open door policy."

extremely impressed by not only the community at Johnson & Wales but also the perception they bring forth. Major Quinn explains, "our departmental focus is really an exciting concept. This is not the typical education academia, this is preparing students for life, and that is a remarkable environment." The Safety and Security Department ensure campus safety by using foot patrols, vehicle patrols, and bike patrols when Providence weather is on their side. The director hopes to determine what services Safety and Security desires to improve by use of an appraisal, "My plan is to do an assessment of the services that we provide to the Johnson Wales community. A good plan always begins with scanning what the horizon is and going from there," states Major Quinn.
The decorated officer of one of the most prestigious law enforcement agencies in the country would like to put an emphasis on an "open door policy" to the University community.

Charlotte

"We are entering a new era in the University's commitment to a system of strong, interdependent campuses, each that provide our full educational offerings and the faculty, staff and facilities to attract and retain career-focused students."

they both would have required significant investment to enable them to offer the full Johnson & Wales University experience. Dr. Yena added, Charlotte, although it is urban, uplifts that small town feel that makes it distinctive. This city, therefore, makes a perfect home for Johnson & Wales University, being a career university.

Charlotte, within a day's drive to 50 percent of America's population, is the heart of the New South.
The new University will allow the university as a whole to grow.

It was a difficult decision because it will have a significant impact on our existing southeastern campuses in Charlotte over the next four years. The University will maintain an on-going presence in these two cities that is closely aligned with employer needs.

Johnson & Wales University, as one can see, will continue to keep its contacts in Norfolk and Charleston. The Senior Vice President for External Affairs, Ken Levy, is heading a team to maintain these contacts. The team includes both Charleston and Norfolk’s current campus presidents. The planning team will be working with the area employers to establish the best options for continuing a University presence in both cities.

The freshmen enrolled in 2003 will be the last class in the campuses, and is limited to a culinary arts associate degree. Freshmen enrolled this fall, in addition, are able to complete the food service management bachelor’s program.
The new campus in Charlotte will offer both associate and bachelor's degree programs from a combination of three colleges, including Business, Culinary Arts, and Hospitality. It will begin its classes in the fall of 2004. Opening enrollment is expected to be an average of 825 students. By 2007, the Johnson & Wales University Charlotte campus will readily be expected to reach around 2,800, with 250 staff and faculty employed.

"We are entering a new era in the University's commitment to a system of strong, interdependent campuses, each that provide our full educational offerings and the faculty, staff and facilities to attract and retain career-focused students," the addition solids Charlotte campus to our system and our commitments to a continued presence in Charleston and Norfolk, we will strengthen our promise of "best fit" employment and be able to provide the world-class education that students, employers and alumni expect from Johnson & Wales.

The new campus will be located in Charlotte's downtown, in the city's Gateway Village. This development is a multi-use urban village with an array of residential and commercial buildings located in the city center's western entrance. Charlotte is situated between separating rivers and the beaches and the city includes extra-curricular activities such as a lively arts scene and professional sports.
A part of the grand design for the Providence Campus. The Student Center would be located on the downtown campus, there are several locations being examined. The move of Interstate 195 has impacted the planning greatly. The University is looking at configuring the space so one building can flow to other academic buildings. The Student Center would consist of a building similar to CBCSI and the Harborside Recreational Center, it could possibly be four stories high. Much of the building would be dedicated to the students.

"We hope it can be a place where students can gather, some offices of the student government may be there, as well as other clubs and organizations," says Arthur Gallagher, Vice President of Student Affairs. Gallagher continues, "There are also plans for a cafe/convenience store, as well as a new student services building, similar to the paramount building." Gallagher hopes this could become a reality within the next year or two.

Dean of Students, Terry Addison would agree with the importance of a meeting space, computer labs, a larger auditorium, and even brand name food in the cafe area of the Center.

"We are J&W. We want to have our own culinary artistry, and it is a good opportunity for a practicum site for culinary students," states Dean Addison. Addison counters, "However, we are affiliated with Pepsi, which puts limitations on our options. For instance, Pepsi has Kentucky Fried Chicken, and Taco Bell. Any one of those can be a possibility."

Also in the discussion of the grand design for the Providence Campus are athletic fields on the Harborside Campus. A full architectural design has been released in terms of what those fields would consist of. The fields would be up to specifications and codes for NCAA athletic facilities. All of the facilities must meet certain requirements. Soccer fields, a baseball and softball diamond, tennis courts, and a track are all being included in the dialogue. There may also be collaboration with Brown University for a rowing house with boat teams. All of this would be located on the Harborside Campus, no set location has been placed as of yet.

"I think a student center would be a nice place for students to hang out in between classes or on the weekends," exclaims Sophomore Britany Marland. Marland continues, "It would give students who live off campus or in far off dorms a place to go and hang out with friends, study, or socialize when they have a break in class."

The primary focus of The Student Center/Union is to offer students a place to complete all of their tasks in one process. Imagine being able to print out your degree audit at the Registrar, buy your class books at the Book Store, visit Student Success for a tid-bit of tutoring, print out that final paper in a computer lab, and even grab a bite to eat at either KFC, or Taco Bell all in one building. Surely, these plans will take certain planning time and funds. There are many layers to be looked at when it comes to construction, especially in a city. However, your administration "would love to make this a reality."
Miss Vermont, a J&W Alumni

By Jennifer Fontaine

Did you know that Miss Vermont once went to Johnson and Wales?

Jo Wiley attended the Providence Campus and majored in Advertising Public Relations. Wiley was very involved in the DECA club and received a scholarship from DECA to attend J&W. Miss Vermont decided to attend J&W because of its location, the culture, and the DECA scholarship she received.

Ms. Wiley is 24 years old and currently lives in Bakersfield, Vermont. Wiley teaches marketing at a local high school and is also a floral designer. Her career ambition is to continue teaching. Wiley wants to earn her MA and complete her BA. She will receive an external degree at Johnson State College in Vermont and continue for her masters at Champlain in Bennington, Vermont.

For the Miss America competition, her platform was mentoring. Wiley uses her platform as a guide to teaching marketing. Wiley fosters positive relationships with businesses and teaches this to her students. She also fosters and creates communication-based relationships. Wiley encourages communication in order to get involved in any program, activity or organization.

Wiley's ambition to enter the Miss America competition primarily was from the influence of her good friend, Jill Cummings. Cummings convinced her that scholarship money could be won and this could help to fund her college education. Wiley's decision to compete was only to have fun and to see what types of scholarships she could win. Her family has always supported her on this decision to compete. However, her mom was a little leery at first, but then became more involved and excited over the competition.

Wiley stated that the Miss America competition is much different from the Miss USA competition. Miss America contestants are based on knowledge, volunteerism and personality. She has had no enemies in her experience of the Miss America competition. Wiley has walked away from this competition with many close friends. The competition has also opened many doors for Wiley that will help her in the future.

There is a lot more behind her title of Miss Vermont than what many people may perceive. Sarah Jo Wiley is educated, talented, successful, kind, encouraging and creative. It is a huge honor for the J&W alumni to have Wiley as a former student. She is a great role model for younger students and a great role model for anyone who wants to get involved in the Miss America competition.

Wiley received awards for presence and poise in evening wear, lifestyle and fitness in swimsuit, and artistic expression in talent for vocal.

UIB wins awards at regional convention

By Brian Muskelman

The University Involvement Board (UIB) attended a conference in Marlboro, Massachusetts this past November where The National Association of Campus Activities held the Northeast Region Conference. The conference was over a three-day period. The purpose of this conference is to bring students from all over New England to participate in educational sessions and check out bands, comedians, lectures, and other acts to bring to their colleges or universities.

UIB is attending this conference every year. This year was extraordinary due to the four awards won by Johnson & Wales University's UIB. Among these awards were the Excellence in Programming Award, Most Original Article of Clothing, and Best Clearance Sale Display Booth. The Media Relations Coordinator for UIB, Brian Muskelman, took home the Rhode Island Student Leader of the Year Award. "UIB would like to congratulate Michelle Delaney, Director of Student Activities, for winning the Donald McCullough Award, the most prestigious award in the NACA Northeast Region. UIB would like to thank our Advisor, Tim Lorenz, for all his assistance. Without the help of Tim Lorenz we would not be where we are today. We would like to thank the members of UIB that came with us to the conference, and to all the members of the Johnson & Wales community for participating in our events. Without the J&W community, these awards would not have happened."

Organization Spotlight

An Inside Interview with CSA’s President, Tiffany Rankine gives insight on the present and future goals of the organization.

CARIBBEAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

What is the mission of the organization for 2002-2003, and what steps do you plan to take to initiate these plans?

The mission of the Caribbean Student Association is to bring unity to Caribbean students and a place for them to fellowship as well as to be together to educate the Johnson & Wales University about the Caribbean. To do so, we plan to have open meetings for anyone, we plan to work with other organizations and also have forums about Caribbean culture. We will do this by holding our annual Island Festival, and that’s basically when we have all cultures express themselves with different foods and advertise different Caribbean cultures.

How do you plan to increase membership and keep current members involved?

To keep membership, we will try to make the whole University aware that we are on campus and we are here to support the Caribbean culture. It is not just one person, but a whole Caribbean Student Association. As you know there are many Caribbean islands. As for keeping current members we would want to make sure that the members feel that they are a part of the organization and that their input is very important.

What makes the CSA different from other organizations on campus?

I guess the difference is we are not here for any particular purpose, other than to make students feel that they have some where to associate with and have fun. Its not just strictly business, we also want you to have fun but still take care of business.

What projects does CSA have planned for this year?

We have a dance coming up this Friday with Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. We are also going to work with the Office of Campus Diversity on the “Winter Wonder Land”, we also plan on working with everyone for Black History Month.

What are some things that the organization has done different this year than last year?

I think the one thing that has improved is the awareness of the organization on campus. We are working a lot more on trying to get publicity and let the public know we exist.

What do you think led to the chartering of CSA at Johnson & Wales University?

CSA sort of needed to separate from the International Club because as we know everybody's different but as a group of people we thought that we could be more unified as culture. When you have a huge organization like the International Club it is hard to meet the needs of everyone in the organization because its so broad. So, I think it was decided to have CSA so we can direct more attention to Caribbean culture. CSA still works very close with the International Club.

What is CSA’s main focus here on campus and why do you feel it’s needed?

I think our main goal is to let everybody here know about the Caribbean, and that it is not just one or two countries, but it is made up with so many cultures including Spanish, French, Dutch, British and many more. CSA is needed on Johnson & Wales University to diversify the community with food culture and much more, everybody knows Jamaican and association with reggae and Bob Marley but there is much more like calypso, Soca, etc, and we want to bring all the positive aspects of the Caribbean to Johnson & Wales University and basically bring out the best of the Caribbean culture.

Movie Review

Drumline: Halftime is Gametime

Drumline is a musical drama that takes place during a high school band’s halftime performance. It follows the life of a high school student, Devon Miles, who has a natural talent for drumming, but is a misfit in his school. Devon is recruited by the band director, Dr. Lee, to join the band as the drum major. The film follows Devon’s journey as he navigates the challenges of high school life and band practice, all while preparing for the big halftime performance.

Drumline receives strong performances from actors such as Orlando Jones (Dr. Lee) who plays the band director and leader whose job is on the line when he makes the decision that could make or break his career, Zoli Saldana (Laila) who catches the eye of Devon, GQ (Jayson) and Jason Weaver (Earnest) as fellow freshmen all gearing to receive a starting spot.

Songwriter-producer Dallas Austin’s experience as a high school drum major serves as the inspiration behind the film. Austin also serves as the Executive Director and Executive Music Director.

The film was put into motion when Austin sent a tape to Twentieth Century Fox displaying show-style marching bands in action. Filmmaker Charles Stone, a graduate of Rhode Island School of Design (RISD), makes his second major film debut after directing the movie "Paid in Full." Stone is known for his Budweiser "Whassup?" TV commercials and directing musical videos for包装艺人 or Public Enemy and Ziggy Marley.

Atlanta high school band director Don Roberts who is a former student of renowned conductor Dr. William Foster who first introduced show-style marching with Florida A & M University. Roberts serves as the film’s Technical Advisor and assisted with the recruiting of the 170-person band.

From the trailer this movie may seem just like another African American movie geared to African Americans, on the contrary this film is so much more. Anyone who is into "old school" music from the 70’s or music in general, or who’s familiar with show-style marching bands, will appreciate the film. From the beginning "Drumline," catches the audiences with nonstop comedy.

The film release date will be December 13, 2002 hitting movie theaters nationwide.
The Campus Herald's 10 Questions

1. Isn't it funny how the best rapper in America is white, and the best golfer in America is black? 2. Doesn't Indie Arie look like Tracey Chapman's long lost cousin? 3. What ever happened to Christina Aguilera? Did she go to a Little Kim convention? 4. We all love Johnson & Wales, but if we still have a lot of problems here in the Providence campus why are they still making more campuses? 5. Why is lemon juice made with artificial flavor, and dishwashing liquid made with real lemons? 6.If con is the opposite of pro, is Congress the opposite of progress? 7. If J&W has a 98% job rate after graduation, what ever happens to that 2%? 8. If J&W has the #1 culinary school in America, who is cooking the dining hall food? 9. Why is the person who invests your money called a broker? 10. Why is the Campus Herald called "Campus" Herald...what campus?
Bringing in the New Year in Rhode Island

By Dia Papounakis

New Year’s Eve is the ultimate party night. Although most Johnson & Wales Students are heading home for the holidays, many students will be in the area for various reasons. New Year’s Eve is also one of the most sought after evenings for restaurant dining. Some restaurants in the area are looking forward to the busy night of December 31st. These restaurants have catered to this idea by providing entertainment and a special menu. Café Nuovo, for instance, will be celebrating with a DJ while still holding on to their daily menu, with just a few changes. Bella Vista, which is located by the Providence Place Mall, will be offering a open bar, a three course pre-fix menu, and a champagne toast at midnight. The party starts at 8:30 and costs one hundred dollars a head. Napa Valley Grill, which is located in the Providence Place Mall, will be offering a special fix menu while also having their daily menu available. Restaurants, like Capital Grill, who will simply be offering their regular menu. Many other restaurants in Providence are presently putting together plans for the big New Year celebration. Olivas, India, and Union Station bar are all in the process of putting together plans for New Years. Giving them a call in two weeks or so should give them enough time to have their big bash ready to go.

Holiday Weight Gain Holding Students Down

By Dia Papounakis

Americans, on the average, gain five pounds between Thanksgiving and New Year’s. With all the delicious home-cooked meals, the desserts, and the cocktails, it’s hard to avoid a little weight gain. Some may even feel like this is their time to splurge. On the other hand, some people may want to lose weight during this festive time period. Dieting, however, is not the way to go. Dieting increases the probability for overindulgence and overeating. The goal of the holidays, according to Duke University, should be maintaining one’s weight, not throwing it off balance, which does create more stress. Dr. Lisa Gianetto of Duke University gives some helpful holiday tips to help balance eating habits and to also avoid those extra pounds. When the days become hectic, avoid indulging in high-fat fast foods. Plan quick and healthy meals and have them ready available for reheating. Don’t try to avoid high-fat holiday favorites like egg nog. Instead, select smaller portions and include a variety of low-fat choices on your plate such as, baked items, fruit dishes, pastas, and breads. Enjoy a snack before going out for alcoholic drinks. Alcohol can lead to overeating and overdrinking. Having a glass of water before every drink is also a great way to not only keep you on the alls of alcohol, but also keep the body hydrated. Entertainment should be centered around non-food events, such as a movie or ice-skating. Bring a low-calorie dish that’s a favorite (low-calorie recipes can also work) to a party. This way you and guests will have at least one “safe” food item. Arriving fashionably late and not standing around the buffet table are also some good tips in avoiding the temptation to overeat. Put in the effort to participate in regular exercise, even in frenzied times. It will be the key to maintaining healthy weight and good health.

Cooking Corner: Holiday Season Desserts

If anyone can be said to have the recipe for spirituality and well-being, it is Deepak Chopra, M.D. Chopra is best known for his work in spirituality, mind-body medicine and anti-aging. He now offers another kind of recipe – the delicious recipes served at the Chopra Center for Well Being. These

Pumpkin Pie:

Crust:
1 1/4 cups whole wheat pastry flour
1 pinch salt
1/2 cup cold butter, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
1 tablespoon apple cider vinegar or white vinegar

Filling:
1 3-1/2 pumpkin
1 cup low-fat vanilla soymilk, milk or cream
1/2 cup turbinado sugar
2 tablespoons maple syrup
2 eggs or 1/4 cup applesauce or mango puree
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 pinch salt

Place the flour and salt in a food processor and pulse to combine. With the machine running, begin to add the butter, one piece at a time. Continue to pulse until the mixture looks like coarse meat. Add the vinegar. With the machine still running, begin to slowly add the ice water, one tablespoon at a time, waiting a moment or two before each addition, until the dough begins to form into a ball in the bowl of the processor. Remove the dough and place on an oil-sprayed surface and roll out into a circle that is one inch larger than the pie pan. Lightly oil the pie pan and place the dough in it leaving a one inch edge around the perimeter of the pan. Create a nice border around the pie pan, trimming off any excess dough. Place the piecrust in the refrigerator while you make the pumpkin filling. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Wash and cut the pumpkin and remove the seeds. Place outside down in a baking dish with about 1/2 inch of apple juice, cover with parchment paper and foil, and bake for 4-5 minutes or until an inserted knife comes out easily. Leave the oven on. When the pumpkin is cool enough to handle, scoop out the pulp with a large spoon. Reserve the pulp in a bowl and discard the skin. In a blender or food processor, combine three cups of pulp, soymilk, sugar, maple syrup, eggs, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and salt. Mix well. Remove the pie crust from the refrigerator, pour the batter up to the rim of the dish. Bake for approximately 45 minutes. When the pie begins to brown, place some foil over it. Bake until an inserted toothpick comes out clean. The pie should be golden brown.

Alcohol abuse linked to Sexual Coercion

By Leslie FiMoM

Do you think that it doesn't happen to men? Dating Violence is a social issue that affects both women and men. As it stands 10% of males are reportedly the victims of dating violence. Some of these incidents do occur in same gender relationships. A male being labeled as the attacker is not always true.

Of course research as well as countless surveys have time and time again proven that women have higher rates of being the victims of dating violence. In a recent article written by Sheila Johnson it became clear that women are three times more likely than to be victims of date rape.

Surprisingly, however according to an article by Joel Schwartz, college men are nearly as likely as women to report they are victims of unwanted sexual coercion. The article also explains that eighty-two percent of dating violence incidents against men are not reported to the police. In a survey participants of ages 18-23, were asked about their sexual encounters in the past year. This survey performed by the University of Washington's Addictive Behavior's Research Center, discovered that out of a sample of 300 men and women, 21% of the male participants reported being recipients of some type of unwanted sexual coercion. 14% of the men that answered the survey said that they were coerced into having sex.

Another link to the survey of sexual coercion were the important factors of alcohol and drugs. Drugs and alcohol are not the blame for dating violence. They are simply factors that have been used to sometimes help the attacker coerce their victims in sexual situations. Alcohol can impair a person's awareness to the signals that may lead to a sexual situation. Alcohol and drugs also can diminish the victim's resistance in an attack.

In reality we are all at risk of becoming victims of dating violence. No matter the gender. There are warning signals that can let us know that our partner might be abusive. According to the University of Connecticut Women's Center, some warning signs of dating violence may include physical controls such as hitting, grabbing, pushing and physical intimidations. Also both men and women should be aware that sexual coercion, excessive jealousy and possessiveness are also signs.

Women’s basketball shoot for successful season expectations

By Dave Hines

With the help of Janet Lopez, the Women Wildcat basketball program has improved.

The Wildcat women’s basketball team served notice early that it plans to improve on last year’s 12-14 record. They opened their season by winning the Pepsi Cardinal Classic in Plattsburgh, NY. Janet Lopez scored 19 points and added 10 rebounds to lead the Wildcats to a 71-47 win over Lasell College in the opener. Melissa Fidalgo finished with 10 points and 11 rebounds, while Briana Musgrove and Karen Thurston added 11 and 10 points, respectively. The Wildcats raced out to a 35-13 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way.

Johnson & Wales defeated host Plattsburgh State 65-57 in the championship contest. The Wildcats led 29-27 at halftime and never gave up the lead in the second half. Kylee Myers led the way with 17 points, followed by Lopez (13), Musgrove (13) and Fidalgo (12). Myers was named the tournament MVP, while Lopez was named to the all-tournament team.

For a team that was 5-19 two years ago, this season’s early-season success is a major step forward. The Wildcats play at Roger Williams College in Bristol, RI, at 1 pm on Dec. 14. Their final home game before the Christmas break will be at 8 pm on Dec. 16 against Framingham State at the Harborside Rec Center.

Men’s wrestling a threat to New England collegiate teams

By Dave Hines

Ryan Lenhardt was named Pilgrim League Wrestler of the Week for outstanding play.

The wrestling team has shown itself as a force to be reckoned with in New England this season by performing strongly in invitational tournaments.

The Wildcats finished 9th out of 16 teams at the Ithaca College tournament, 4th out of 11 schools at the Kings College (PA) tourney, and 3rd out of 14 teams at the Doug Parker Invitational held in Springfield, MA. The Wildcats easily dominated Bridgewater State and MIT in their most recent match to date. Preseason All-America hopeful Tim Ruberig lived up to that billing by winning his first 15 matches at 174 pounds, six of them by pins, while recording 89 takedowns. Ryan Lenhardt was 11-1 at 197, and 13 at 184 pounds, highlighted by a championship at the Doug Parker Invitational. Lenhardt was also 3rd at 184 and placed his opponent in the finals in 30 seconds. For that effort he was named the Pilgrim League Wrestler of the Week.

The Wildcats are strong in several other weight classes. Vinny Lauria started 9-6 at 125 and 133 pounds, with six of those wins coming via pins. Anny Montes was 11-5 at 133 and 141 pounds and was second behind Ruberig in takedowns with 58. Devin Schilt was 10-7 at 157 pounds, Dan Montgomery was 8-9 at 197, and Freshman Time Jones was 8-8 at 285 pounds.

The Wildcats will host Eastern Connecticut State University and Eastern Connecticut College on Saturday, Dec. 14 at 1 pm at the Harborside Rec Center.

Wildcat Athletics’ fall season remains on top of the GNAC status

By Dave Hines

The Wildcat athletic teams completed the fall season with a cumulative record of 71-21-2, four Great Northeast Athletic Conference championships, and a slew of individual honors.

The women’s volleyball team (21-13) won its fourth consecutive GNAC title before losing to MIT in the first round of the NCAA tournament. Senior Shana Eigen and sophomore Annamari Proto were named to the All-Conference first team, while Jamie Mercoux was honored as Coach of the Year for the fourth straight year and freshman Erica Young was named Newcomer of the Year.

The men’s soccer team (14-9-1) won three straight post-season road games to win the GNAC tournament before losing 2-1 to the Merchant Marine Academy in the first round of the NCAA tournament. Senior Steve Tenaglia and sophomore Mark Bieler were named to the All-Conference first team, while seniors Seth Schoem and Trevor Foden and junior Mark Scott, the top scorer in the conference, were named to the second team. Gregg Miller was honored as the GNAC Coach of the Year.

The women’s soccer team (14-7-1) lost 1-0 to Western New England College in the finals of the GNAC tournament. Seniors Stephanie Petree, and seniors Jennifer Broderick and Lucia Sanchez were named to the All-Conference first team, while senior Stephanie Petree and junior Diane Andrade made the second team.

The women’s tennis team (12-1) made GNAC history by sweeping all six singles matches and three doubles matches at the conference tournament. Victoria Spence, Tara Pasquale, Sebba Eyboglou, Emily Herr, Jessica Rodgers and Emily Godfrey finished the season with a combined record of 149-19.

Allan Friedman was honored as GNAC Co-Coach of the Year.

The women’s cross-country team claim its title at the GNAC conference meet, while the men’s team finished third. The co-ed golf team (6-1) didn’t get a chance to compete for a GNAC title because the conference meet was postponed due to inclement weather.

Men’s basketball 1-1 to open the season

By Dave Hines

Season opens with a victory. Rohan Russell and company plan to take the basketball team to another level.

The men’s basketball team opened its season by splitting two games at the Eastern Nazarene College tournament held in Quincy, MA.

Rohan Russell, who scored over 1,000 points last year at Community College of Rhode Island before transferring to Johnson & Wales, tossed in 33 points to lead JWU to an 88-67 triumph over Newbury College in the opener. Russell made 10-of-20 shots from the field includ-

The Providence Journal (web edition), is reporting that Tom Brady is rumored to be dishing out passes to Tara Reid, the actress from American Pie. The rumor is not confirmed; however they also reported that he was dating Mariah Carey. Brady would not be the first sports star to take notice to Mariah.

Derek Jeter has also dated the diva. Bob Knight is suing Indiana University. Knight claims he was wrongfully dismissed and that Indiana should repay him for lost income.

The Minnesota Vikings have requested that some of the counts of the 100 million dollar wrongful death suit filed by widow of Corey Stringer be dropped.

People actually treat the game "Rock, Paper, and Scissors" as a national sport with different rules and competitions? Yes believe it or not this is factual. The game goes like this -- Two players agree on a decision that the loser must carry out. The outcome of the game is measured as a binding agreement. The World RPS Society does not take any responsibility, legal or otherwise, as a result of any actions or in-actions performed as a result of a decision made or changed via the use of the game.

Once the game is over the other player must carry out that task discussed in the decision. Visit www.worldrps.com to view a few of the guidelines and rules.

Holiday Message from SGA

Amberlee Rogers, Vice President of Public Relations

With the holiday season rapidly approaching, many of us look forward to pleasant and wonderful benefits this time of year may bring. The home cooked meals, the warmth, and the warm moments with our family and friends are just a few of the advantages of the season. At this time it is important for us to take a moment to appreciate everything in our lives which we may take for granted. We really do have plenty to be grateful for; one of those blessings is common among us all. The one thing we share as students of Johnson & Wales University, which unites and bonds each and everyone of us.

We have the opportunity to attend an established university, and receive from knowledgeable faculty and staff. These faculty members truly do care about our academic progress and are empathetic to our personal struggles as the young individuals to lead the future.

Harborside Campus Affairs Committee

is the voice for students

Rashael Curry, Vice President of Harborside Campus Affairs

Have you ever heard of The SGA (Student Government Association)?

SGA is the senior governing body, made up of students who devote their time creating a more comfortable environment for the student body at Johnson & Wales. SGA attempts to do this through each section of the University. Within SGA, there are committees that deal with different aspects of student life. One of these committees is the Harborside Campus Affairs. The HCA committee is responsible for addressing the issues and concerns of the student body in the areas of Residential Life and Transportation on the Harborside Campus. The members of this committee include the Vice President of Residential Life, Senate-Kevin Marsh, Committee Members- Pierre Bertil, Michael McManus, and Rachael Hines. This year the committee is working with the directors of Residential Life and Transportation to help communicate the issues and concerns of the student body with the people with the authority to change them.

Regarding the issue of residential life on the Harborside Campus, there are five pertaining Residence Halls: ACE, West, East, South, and Hospitality. Coming soon, there five Residence Halls will have surveys available to complete, giving students the opportunity to voice their suggestions. If you would like to help the Harborside Campus Affairs Committee to also hear your voices or issues or concerns, feel free to call the Student Government office at JUWU-1091. If you would like to speak with a representative of SGA on one on one, please stop by the SGA office at the CBCSU (Citizen’s Bank Center for Student Involvement), located on the Downswy Campus, next to the Providence Performance Arts Center (PPAC). Please Remember We are here to serve you and we cannot do it without your support.

Public Relations Committee

Amberlee Rogers, Vice President of Public Relations

The Public Relations committee is made up of four creative and dedicated representatives of the Student Government Association. These members include:

Freshman Class President Kevin Pons
Vice President of Student Services Gregory Whitmore
Vice President of Clubs and Organizations Joey Lawrence
Clubs and Organizations senator and co-chair Kevin Hoar

The Vice President is Junior Class President Amberlee Rogers and together this team is working on a variety of projects for the year. These projects were created to enhance communication between the Student Government Association and the student body of JWU. Committee members have been chosen to operate separate projects and to see those projects through to their deadlines.

Senator Kevin Hoar will be working on social special events and plans for the PR committee, while Vice President Gregory Whitmore will be overseeing our official SGA Newsletter. You can expect to see that newsletter at the beginning of January 2003. If you would like any further information regarding the Public Relations committee of the Student Government Association please contact the Vice President Amberlee Rogers or a committee member at the SGA office (401-598-1091).

Happy Birthday to November born Student Government representatives. Student Body President Albert Hilliard & Student Services Senator Dashawn Patterson.

Salome’s Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Make a start on that new workplace challenge. But get more information before you find yourself too deeply involved without knowing in which direction you should go.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You might find things becoming tedious as your schedule slows down for the holidays. Use this time to get information about a possible post-New Year job change.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The creative Twin finds outlets for her or his ideas in the early part of the week. The practical Twin takes it a step further and rallies support to turn the ideas into reality.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It’s time to stop being intimidated by someone’s negative behavior. Start taking positive steps on your own to help strengthen your position down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Look closely at that so-called golden opportunity. Best to be a cautious Cat who approaches things slowly, than one who pours without knowing where you’ll land.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your apology can resolve that personal situation before it overshadows the holidays. You’ll feel better, even if you’re only partly to blame for what happened.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Avoid overacting yourself, even if your energy levels are high and you feel that you can do it all. Best to pace yourself so you won’t run yourself down before the holidays.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your sense of humor helps get you through a stressful period. Some of your quick quips can take the edge off any remaining negativity being aimed at you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your artistic talents not only help you express yourself these days, but they also set up a line of communication between you and someone very special.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It’s fine to appreciate the importance of “proper form” for doing things. But relax a bit in order to allow newcomers on the project to feel less intimidated by you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Use your boundless reserve of optimism to persuade others to work with you to resolve a difficult workplace problem before it can ruin your holiday fun.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You’ll bring over with self-confidence as you begin to tackle a new challenge. And, before you know it, you’re not alone: Others have taken the plunge with you.

Born this Week: You have a highly defined sense of commitment to others. You would make a fine social worker.
