J&W Celebrates National Library Week

By Michael Gibbons

"Libraries are a part of the American Dream, they offer opportunities for education and self-help. But they are also changing and dynamic places, on the forefront of information age."

Dean of Libraries, Helena Rodrigues

On April 6, 2003, the Johnson & Wales University library will be sponsoring a program called "celebrate the book," during National Library Week. This year faculty members have been invited to participate in this program by providing book recommendations and reasons for their selections. All responses will be printed on posters which will be placed within the library. This celebration week will be the kick-off to an even bigger educational program called @your library, The Campaign for America's Libraries.

The Johnson & Wales University Library has recently joined libraries from 50 states to begin this new, national, public educational initiative. The multi-year campaign, sponsored by the American Library Association, is designed to remind the public that today's libraries are vibrant, modern community centers for learning, information and entertainment.

"Libraries are a part of the american dream," says Dr. Helena Rodrigues, Dean of University Libraries. "They offer opportunities for education and self-help. They are..."

J&W Celebrates National Women's History Month

By Michael Gibbons

On March 27th, The Johnson & Wales University Office of Campus Diversity, in conjunction with the J&W chapter of the NAACP, hosted a dinner and awards ceremony in honor of Women's History Month entitled "Strength of a Woman." The event was designed to recognize women on the Johnson & Wales campus as well as in the Rhode Island community who have set an example of what a true woman should be.

J&W Student Honored Through Culinary Arts Program

By Christine Covington

Culinary Arts Program (C-CAP) recently honored one of our fellow students Josh Partlow. Partlow who encountered C-CAP while attending Englewood Tech Prep Academy in Chicago praised the program and J&W when he spoke at the Annual Benefit Dinner stating "Johnson & Wales has given me a background so that I can be creative". C-CAP, has been building the careers of inner-city high school students who aspire to become great chefs since 1990. The work of the C-CAP, a non-profit,

Career Expo: Seeking the "Best Fit" Between Students and the Employer

By Leslie McMillian

Finding the "Best Fit" employment is always a high priority for the career development office of Johnson & Wales University. But for the most part, seeking employment is not always an easy task. Akansha Aga, one of the Recruitment Planning Specialists in the Career Development Office is among one of the many important links between the companies and the students. Finding the "Best Fit" is always a major concern for graduating students. One of the major concerns she says is timing. "Students should start to see their career coaches early" says Aga. By doing so students will be able to take the necessary steps to find "best Fit" employment.

The idea of the spring Career Expos began approximately four years ago. Both students and employers wanted a new venue primarily to target more specific areas of study. Therefore, creating the different career forums for business, hospitality, and technology students. The Career Expo which took place on March 26, and 27th of this year also occur during hiring season.

Safety Tip of the Week
Date Rape Drugs
Unfortunately, there are people out there who may use a “date rape drug” to get what they want. Drugs such as GHB, Rohypnol (roofies) and Ketamine (Special K) are odorless and tasteless, making it easy for someone to slip them into your drink. The impact? For four to six hours, a sedated state will make you lose inhibitions, succumb to drowsiness, slur your speech, and forget what happens. So, keep yourself safe by:

*Never leaving a drink unattended.
*Never accepting drinks from strangers.

also changing and dynamic places, on the forefront of the information age."

The purpose of this campaign is to increase awareness about the value of today's libraries. This effort is a research response that shows that while there are an estimated 117,000 libraries in the United States, they are often seldom used. Research also indicates that even though libraries are built around schools, campuses, and communities, they are not visible.

The Campaign for America's Libraries' goals are to promote an understanding of the value of academic and research libraries and librarians in the 21st Century, to increase visibility and support for academic and research libraries and librarians, to help librarians better market their services on-site and online, to position academic and research librarianship as a desirable career opportunity, and to foster a greater connection with other types of libraries.

"This campaign is a terrific opportunity to generate a better understanding of the role of academic and research libraries and the contributions they make. I also hope it will foster a sense of pride among our members and the greater academic and research library community for the important work we do every day," says Dean Rodrigues who also stands as the ACRL New England Chapter President, "Academic and research librarians will gain through the campaign that will help give voice to their stories. The nation's public relations effort will have a major impact on their key constituencies."

The @ your library campaign will promote the role of our nation's 117,000 libraries and 140,000 librarians. Rodrigues adds, "Despite the challenge of the digital world, books remain an important source for both information and inspiration."

for most companies. November is the start of the process of gathering up the companies that will be hiring candidates for the various On-Campus Recruitment interviews at the Career Expo. The first few step is to involve creating and building up old and past relationships, that the University has with the various companies.

The Career Development Office also has the responsibility of promoting visits for some of the prospective companies. This allows the Career Development Office to see the operations of the sites.

According to Aga the Career Expos serve many purposes. The expos will help the winter and spring graduates find good jobs out of employment. While other students will be able to seek internship opportunities and summer employment at the event. Even though students have the option of erecting, the Career Expo will let the students have a one on one conversation with the employers. Aga explains that the ultimate goal is for the good students to find the good jobs.

Celeste Brantolino the Director of Career Development & Alumni Relations says employers look for career focused individuals. So the first impression is always the most important. According to Brantolino, professional attire and hair grooming are among other important factors that employers look at during an interview. A majority of the employers do ask questions about the candidates at the career expos. One thing that students must remember is to always put your best foot forward. Brantolino says that a lot of times a recruiter of one company can come back two years from now as a recruiter of another company.

“Strength of a Woman is having the ability to be powerful, a leader, and have compassion all at the same time.” Armeather Gibbs

This dinner and awards ceremony included musical selections by Kim Trusty, Tamara Tyrrell, and Paul Williams, and a keynote speaker by the name of Armeather Gibbs. Gibbs, a Rhode Island native, is Senior Vice President and community Development Manager for Fleet Bank. She has received numerous community awards and commendations as part of several boards including her role as chair of the board for the National conference for Community & Justice (NCCJ), board member at RI Hospital and chair of RI Hospital's community Affairs Committee, member of the executive committee of South Providence Development Corporation, member of the President's council-Providence College, and member of the board of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. During her speech she stressed the importance of diversity and the inter-strength possessed by women. "In order to make diversity work, we all have to make diversity work," says Gibbs. "Women have to play the role of mentors, leaders, and have a big responsibility for our young people. We have the ability to be a greater voice.”

Gibbs continued by explaining how women in today's society, need to be self-confident, and need not let barriers stop them from accomplishing their goals. "Strength of a Woman is having the ability to be powerful, a leader, and have compassion all at the same time," said Gibbs.

Recipients of the Strength of a Woman were awarded to fourteen special women of the J&W and Rhode Island community. They are: Vanisa Brown-Smith; Dr. Marilyn Davis; Armeather Gibbs; Ghislaine Jean; Dr. Terry Novak; Anice O'Connor; Judith Turchetta; Susan Connery; Patricia Tronclair; Carrie Martin; Michaela DeCataldo; LaKeisha Bryant; Esther Slack; and Alicea Moses.

Other awards were given to students of Johnson & Wales who have gained a high level of achievement as students. These include Dawn Rebecca Bohanon; Luz Castrau; and Rosslan Reid.

The Office of Campus Diversity will be hosting ‘Diversity Week’ from April 7th through April 11th. On Wednesday, April 9th keynote speaker Dr. Evelyn Hu-DeHart will be present speaking on Color Blind or Color Conscious. For more info contact the Office of Campus Diversity at 401-598-1464.

New Mexico Teen Wins Leadership Competition at J&W

By Michael Gibbs

On March 15th, 2003, a resident of New Mexico by the name of Jayme Vigil, and a senior at Escalante High School was announced as the winner of the Sixth Annual National Outstanding Student Leader Competition sponsored by Johnson & Wales University's College of Business and the Center for Leadership Studies.

Vigil will receive a four-year, full-tuition scholarship totaling over $58,000 and will have an opportunity to shadow a corporate CEO during his freshman year. This fall, Vigil plans to start classes at Johnson & Wales' Denver campus, where he will be studying Business Administration and International Business.

"Participating in the competition allowed me to broaden my knowledge of student leadership across the nation," said Vigil. "I was able to compete with outstanding leaders from across the nation and share ideas about what makes us leaders. I will always be grateful of those who work to recognize the leaders of America."

On March 14th, student finalists from around the United States traveled to the Providence, R.I., campus of Johnson & Wales University to compete. Students were judged on their responses to three un-rehearsed role-playing exercises, which tested their decision-making skills, ethics, poise and compassion.

The first runner-up and recipient of a four-year, partial-tuition scholarship totaling $30,000 was Kelly Euel of Riverhead, N.Y. The second runner-up was Patrick Searles of Mackay, Idaho who will receive a four-year partial-tuition scholarship totaling $20,000.

The remaining seven finalists received a four-year partial tuition scholarship totaling $14,000 each.

The Love Doctor

Real World, and soap opera's. It seems like no matter what movie or show it is; there will be a situation with a man and a woman involving their relationship. This rivalry or conflict goes back, all the way from the beginning of time with Adam and Eve. So why, did Eve let Adam eat the apple? However you look at it, there has always been a man that was only out to satisfy his sexual hunger, and there has always been a woman out there that is sneaky and conniving.

So, before we continue lets revisit the initial question, "Are men really only after sex?" The funny thing about this topic is how men and women always seem to have an everlasting conflict. Reason being, is because men and women are really all the same, but we all just express our feelings differently. With that said, not to answer the question, but it's not men that are really only after sex, women are too... but we just express it differently. Society has played such a big factor on how every woman should act.

For example, men should have a lot of money, a nice car with 23-inch rims. In addition to all of the material things, it goes a lot further than that. Men have to be attractive or pride, so men are supposed to have a lot of girls and the nice cars. Rightly, women on the other hand, are supposed to be really cute, skinny, have beautiful eyes, but have only had sex with no more than 3 years or else they can be a hoe.

And for those who do not know what "hoe" means, it's a ghetto dictionary that is defined as a woman of the night, or a very promiscuous woman.

To conclude, society plays a big part of how we are "supposed to act," but in the big picture men and women are really after sex because we are all the same. Although it may seem like men only are after sex because society tells women that they can't be about sex, especially on the first date. Correct me if I'm wrong but when a woman knows if she is going to mess with a man within the first 5 seconds of speaking to him.

Life's Simple Lessons

"Life is what you make of it." Experts say that 10% of our happiness is based on circumstances, meaning what happens to us in our everyday life that is only 10%. Where as half of your happiness is locked in at birth. Some of us were born naturally happy and ecstatic and some of us where born more reserved.

Living in the United States of America during this war is now more important than ever to stay optimistic. We have to go about our everyday lives. Go out and have a good time. I'm not saying not to stay abreast, but don't spend all your free time engrossed in CNN "Live from Iraq" when all it will do is going to depress you. Think about it, no matter how depressed you get it still won't change anything that is occurring. It really won't... so stay informed, but don't over do it.

Living life to the fullest and finding a happy life doesn't necessarily mean going out to the clubs, or making this party. It is mainly the people. The happiest people are the people that are optimistic, they look at bad breaks as realistic pitfalls in life and move on. You live your life in the present and in the future, there is no sense in looking back at mistakes, those things are not going to be changed and look at it as a learning experience.

We learn something from every experience whether good or bad. Value the people you meet in life and value each day. Valuing people is so important. If that person means a lot to you let that person know. We wait for a life shattering moment to occur for us to experience our deepest emotions. The person you would want to be a part of your life, a best friend, must be someone you know as you feel. Have friends that you can call anytime. Why can't we be a part of friends of value than 20 friends we cannot count on. Have friends that understand you, go good company, that will support you.

Too Ashamed to be Americans

First of all, allow me to express my condolences to those who have sacrificed their lives so I may live in freedom. God bless you, your parents, your spouse, your children and your friends. While I sit at my computer and write this, I feel safe and protected because of you. Thank you.

Second of all, I would like to convey a message to all of the anti-war protestors who are "Ashamed to be Americans." This message is directed to all of those who feel the need to protest this war, and make unfounded remarks against our country. Not only are you a complete and utter disgrace to the United States, but you are also a distraction to our law enforcement during such crucial times. Get over it; get over out of make-believe world you live in. If you are so ashamed to be Americans pack your bags and leave. We don't need you! France needs you.

As the son of a Vietnam Veteran, growing up, I heard many distressing stories of war and battle. It was a history lesson in the eyes of one who lived through it. However, no story, movie or book could prepare me for the cruel pictures I viewed on the Al-Jazzaer TV network recently.

American soldiers have gone out of their way to treat Iraqi prisoners of war humanely and in turn, Saddam spits in our face (as usual) and executes 3 U.S. POW's. He then broadcasts their bodies in a morgue-like room in an attempt to weaken American determination. But he was wrong; we are now gittern then ever before.

Why should we liberate Iraq? Unlike the anti-war protestors I am able to support my opinions with facts.

1. Saddam has chased and accumulated weapons of mass destruction. In addition, he has supported terrorists like Osama bin Laden, who is the reason why mothers and fathers were jumping out of a building 70 floors up over a year ago. He is the reason why children were placed in my high school cafeteria on the night of September 11th because; sadly, they had no parents to go home to... Heartless.

2. Saddam got his feet wet when he participated in a 1959 assassination attempt against Iraqi Prime Minister Abdul Karim Kassim.Savage

3. He purged and murdered dozens of government officials suspected of disloyalty... Power... Fiend 4. In the 1980's, he used chemical weapons to crush a Kurdish rebellion in northern Iraq... Cockamammy

5. In 1980 he invaded Iran, launching an eight-year war that ended in defeat... Devastation

6. Not only does he kill his competition, he kills people who he thinks are his compe- tition: His own citizens. "We cannot talk openly, Saddam's men are still around" said an Iraqi to an embedded reporter with the 101st airborne division. "It is still not safe yet." That Iraq is told, will you be safe, and that life after Saddam awaits them... Independence

There you have it non-believers. Now put your anti-war signs down and go home. No one was listening to you anyhow. All you've done is waste the time of police officers around the country, and the money we invest in them. Good job, your 1960's predecessors are proud.

We are fighting for the security of Iraqi citizens, for the security of America's, for the security of the world, including France. Saddam and his coward sons have been in material breach of U.N. resolutions for the past eleven years and as Franklin D. Roosevelt once said, "When you see a rat- tlesnake poised to strike, you do not wait until he has struck before you crush him." Saddam is that rattlesnake, and soon enough he along with his two sons will be crushed. And then the world will be a safer place.
Organization Spotlight

After an inside interview with the president, Eric Stein, the future plans and goals of this organization are disclosed.

The Nutrition Society

What is the mission of The Nutrition Society?

The Nutrition Society is a club who is involved in the education and organization of people who are dedicated to finding ways of improving their quality of life through nutrition and healthy living.

What do you want to do differently from last year to this year?

More involvement with student and faculty and showing the benefits of a healthy lifestyle.

Does the Nutrition Society have any major upcoming events planned?

Yes, on April 8th we will be holding a symbolic seder at Hospitality at 7:30 pm. This event is to explain Kosher law, and to get students and faculty involved.

How does The Nutrition Society plan to increase membership?

One of our biggest ways to increase membership is through word of mouth. But we also have a membership committee which organizes and plans events to make students aware of the club.

What are some of the benefits of being a member?

Involvement in school functions and extracurricular activities focused on nutrition awareness and learning new things about your personal nutrition.

What are some of the challenges faced by the Nutrition Society?

Membership and getting people involved because they are not aware of the difference or impact they can make through this organization.

How will the Nutrition Society make sure that the goals that are being set, are equally met and exceeded?

We succeed through the different committees we have in the group. This allows our members to have an opinion in making the organization better every trimester.

"Old School"

Rating: R

Critic's Corner
By: DNA Smith

We root for filled with doofus losers? "Old School" resembles "Animal House" in one other important respect. In "Animal House," the funniest scenes centered around (and the movie was basically stolen by) John Belushi. In "Old School," like Belushi did 25 years ago, Will Ferrell owns the movie. His performance achieves a level of shameless zeal I haven't seen on film ever. Farrell is without a doubt the funniest man in American comedy today.

There are also a couple of cool cameos of note: Snoop Dogg and James Carville make appearances, and Andy Dick's brief performance is (as usual) interesting and twisted.

The plot isn't much to speak of, but who cares? You don't go to a movie like "Old School" expecting "Schindler's List." You go for fart jokes, sexy girls and to wonder what Will Ferrell will do next.

Nora Jones is the Grammys' undeniable golden girl, generating eight wins, including a sweep of the four most coveted awards.

Jones' Come Away With Me won Best Album, Best Pop Vocal Album and Best Engineered Album, Non-Classical, while her "Don't Know Why" was Record of the Year, Song of the Year and Best Female Pop Vocal Performance.

Jones also took the Best New Artist trophy over Avril Lavigne, Ashanti, Michelle Branch and John Mayer. "I love you so much," Jones told her band in accepting her Best New Artist trophy. "You're the reason I do this."

Come Away With Me also won the Producer of the Year, Non-Classical award for Arif Mardin.

Eve Calls Upon The Docter for Help

Eve doesn't have a title for her next record yet, but maybe she should call it Still E.V.E. The golden-locked rapper/actress is hitting the studio next month with Dr. Dre.

"You will see Dre all over the record, let's put it that way," Eve said recently of the follow-up to last year's Eve-sation. She said she hasn't written any songs yet, opting instead to just get in the studio and let the creativity flow.

"It doesn't matter what type of material he'll bring," she said with a grin. "It's Dre...That's all I care about. He's creative, he's hard-working, and he has the energy. He believes in the project and that is what makes it all good."

Great White to Perform in Memory of Longley

Several benefit concerts are being organized to pay tribute to Great White guitarist Ty Longley, who died in the Warwick, Rhode Island, club fire that killed 99 people last month.

Great White will perform one song at an April 29 benefit at the Key Club in West Hollywood for the Ty Longley Memorial Fund. The fund, established by Longley's parents, will provide financial assistance to the late guitarist's unborn child, victim relief funds and students seeking art scholarships. Other bands on the lineup include '80s hair metal band XYZ and 5 Cent Shine, which Longley was in before he joined Great White. Other national acts will be announced, according to Great White's manager, who added that the surviving band members have no other plans to play together in the near future.

Snoop Pimp-Slapped with Civil Suit

One thing for Snoop Dogg to take cheap shots at his former Death Row label boss, Marion "Suge" Knight. At least Snoop has security guards and bullet-proof cars.

But a man without the advantage of professional protection filed suit against the rapper in Los Angeles Superior Court on Monday for including a voice message he left for Snoop on last year's Paid Tha Cost to Be Da Boss album.

A California man identified only as "John Doe" filed the civil suit, claiming that his life is in danger because of the message, which taunts Knight using the nickname "Simon." Snoop also uses "Simon" in the song to identify the founder of Death Row Records, now called Tha Row.

The suit claims Doe notified Snoop and his label in January that the message was sampled without his consent and that when asked why he used it, Snoop answered, "[because] it was so real."

According to the suit - filed against Calvin Broadus (Snoop's real name), Priority, Capitol and Doggy Style Records.
Men’s Volleyball Prepare for NECVA Tournament

By Dave Bloss

The men’s volleyball team has completed its regular season schedule and is preparing for the North East Collegiate Volleyball Association tournament to be held April 4-6.

First-year coach Neil Nachbar has seen his team maintain a winning record in league play and put up a good fight against nationally-ranked non-league opponents including Hunter College and Roger Williams University.

Several Wildcats have remained among the NECVA statistical leaders. Senior Drew Manter has averaged over three kills per game, and he and freshman Dan Woodside have both averaged over 0.5 aces per game. Setter David Santos has averaged over nine assists per contest.

Women’s Softball On The Attack

By Dave Bloss

The softball team received top-notch pitching in its first three games, but the bats were slow to warm up.

The Wildcats opened the season with a 3-0 loss to Rhode Island College. Kim Cyr allowed only one earned run and struck out two. J&W then dropped a doubleheader to Framingham State by scores of 3-0 and 5-0. Cyr gave up one earned run in five innings in the opener, and Lisa Murphy gave up one earned run in four innings in the nightcap.

Rachel Morey pitched two innings of shutout relief in the nightcap.

Karen Thueson and Sheila Hever each were batting .375 (3-for-8) to pace the Wildcats attack. J&W will host Albertus Magnus for a doubleheader on Wednesday, April 2 at 3:30 pm and Western New England College for a doubleheader on Sunday, April 6 at noon. All home games are held at Pierce Field in East Providence. Take 195 East to Exit 5. At the bottom of the exit, take a left onto Warren Avenue. Take a right on Fifth Street and follow that road to the stadium complex.

Hockey Wildcats named to ECAC Northeast Academic Teams

By Dave Bloss

Three Johnson & Wales University hockey players have been named to the ECAC Northeast Academic teams. Sophomore Will Meyer (Enfield, NH), junior Tom Palamara (Mount Sinai, NY) and sophomore Eric Robertson (Anchorage, Alaska) were all honored for keeping their grade point average over 3.0 while at the same time participating in at least one-half of their team’s games.

J&W To Host Basketball Tournament

By Dave Bloss

Johnson & Wales University is hosting a basketball tournament to raise funds for the victims of the Station Fire. Police and firefighters from throughout the state are going to be asked to participate. Teams of eight players will be accepted, at a cost of $10 per person. The tournament will be held April 27 from 10 am-10 pm at the Harborside Rec Center. The tournament will be round-robin format. For further information, call Bob Nikolai at 598-1615.

Men’s Baseball on the Move with a Solid Offensive Performance over S. Vermont

By Dave Bloss

The baseball team was obviously happy to return home. After a 1-4-1 Florida trip against top-notch Division III competition, the Wildcats won their first four games at Pierce Field.

Dan Howard pitched a seven-hit shutout as J&W defeated Coast Guard 5-0. One day later, John MacKay singled home the winning run in the 10th inning as the Wildcats earned a 2-1 triumph over Worcester Polytechnic. The bats got a solid workout as J&W swept Southern Vermont 20-1 and 23-6 in a Sunday doubleheader.

Through 10 games, John MacKay had stroked 18 hits and was batting .450. Freshman Mike MacKay had eight hits in his first 13 collegiate at-bats. Mark Costello was hitting .419 with a homer and nine RBI, and Mike Hall also had nine RBI to go along with his .323 average.

Howard had a 2-1 record and 19 strikeouts in 18 2/3 innings. Other Wildcat pitchers to record early-season wins included Costello, Hall and Matt Breedes.

The Wildcats will host Anna Maria College at 3:30 pm on Wednesday, April 2, Salve Regina at 3:30 pm on Friday, April 4, and Western New England College for a doubleheader on Sunday, April 6 at noon. All home games are held at Pierce Field in East Providence. Take 195 East to Exit 5. At the bottom of the exit, take a left onto Warren Avenue. Take a right on Fifth Street and follow that road to the stadium complex.

J&W says "Aloha" to Greek Week

By William Kitchke

The time is fast approaching for an event known as "Greek Week." This year's week is featuring a Hawaiian theme, with many events for Fraternity and Sorority on campus. The week is not just for revellers and fun, all of the proceeds from the week will go to the Make A Wish Foundation. The Make A Wish foundation helps special people make their dreams come true.

The events of this week will span from April 5 to April 10. Among these events will be a Greek Olympics, "Greeks on the Commons" where the Greeks will host a day of fun in Gabe common. Mr. and Ms. Greek, and the Greek talent show. Closing the events will be the second annual All-Greek semi-formal at the Providence Biltmore hotel. At the formal will be a night of awards, dancing, and dinner. Featured awards are: Brother of the Year, Sister of the Year, Make a Wish Greek, and Most Valuable Greek.

This week of fun and philanthropy is yet another important aspect of the campus life at Johnson & Wales and will serve to showcase the character and charisma of the Greek life on our campus.

organization, with the help of chefs, restaurant owners, and corporations, is able to provide help to students and school alike through scholarships, mentoring opportunities and other events for those that want to make the food arts their career. Josh, who while a student also managed to work 60-60 hours a week through the school year expressed his gratitude to the program for making his dream of a career in the food service world a reality. Josh now works as a chef manager at University's Hospitality Center dining facility and is also an active member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc.

"Johnson & Wales has been involved with the C-CAP almost since it started; dating from 1991, since J&W signed on they have offered as many as 120 scholarships to C-CAP students, totaling more than $2.25 million," says Tom Gauthier, director of National Student Organizations. He further stated that Johnson & Wales currently has 33 students from the program enrolled at the five campuses. These students come in with such drive, and their C-CAP experience has convinced them that food service is where they want to be. Josh is a wonderful example of how hard work and dedication can turn a kid into a professional.

The University applauds Josh Puff and so do we, he is an example of what hard work can accomplish, not only for Culinary students but Business students, too.

Island Fest 2003 Hits J&W

By Jason Brown

On April 12th in the Garden Room at the Hospitality Center, the Caribbean Student Association will be holding its annual Island Fest to celebrate the numerous amounts of Island cultures and celebrate diversity. Culture is an enormous part of the education of Johnson & Wales University. We all come together from many different nations and very diverse backgrounds. Accepting another for what they bring to the table is what makes our college experience all the more enjoyable. The event will be from 3-8pm and has many activities to look forward to. The nations that will participate are Barbados, Cayman Islands, Haiti, Jamaica, St. Lucia, U.S Virgin Islands, Trinidad, Puerto Rico and many more. There will be a selection of menu items from each island to fit the taste of ones liking. Just to name a few of the dishes that will be available are: West Indian Pepper Pot, Chicken Pelau, Rott, and Tostones. The festival includes live entertainment and many exciting give-a-ways. A limbo competition is scheduled to be held, so stretch those muscles and show us what you got! In recent years there has been a tremendous turn out, expanding to 300 guests. The admission price is $2 at the door and everyone is invited. It is also open to the public so family and friends are welcome. So on April 12th visit the Island Fest and learn and experience the beautiful cultures that our world has to offer.

DID YOU KNOW?

There are other students at Johnson & Wales who share the same EXACT interests, hobbies, goals and ambitions as you do? If you are like many other students at JW&K who are unfamiliar with the many clubs and organizations the school currently has to offer, do something about it! At the CBCSI downtown, (the home of the student activities department) there are "Interest Cards" available. The interest card packet includes a detailed description of each active organization on campus as well as a small form for your contact information. Just fill it out, hand it in. Once you do this, all of the organizations which you may possibly interested in will get in touch with you, and let you know more about what they have to offer you, and what you can do for them.

PC System of Xavier Hall

The Spring Break had ended and the returning students of Xavier Dorm found a computer system in the Recreation Room. Dorm Resident Kevin Kwon, Downtown Campus Affairs Senator and Xavier Hall Council Member along with the SRA Ira Hill had worked together to get a computer system for the dorm. Residents are now pleased that they have a computer to use so they do not have to travel far to use a computer. The residents of Xavier Dorm Thank Joseph Korman and Ira Hill for their accomplishments.

SGA Update

On Sunday, March 23, 2003 Senate met to discuss upcoming issues, concerns, plans and programs in the Bi-Weekly Senate meeting at Harborside Recreational Center at Harborside Campus.

Vice President of Harborside Campus Affairs Rachael Curry was named March’s Senator of the month!! Congratulations Vice President Curry for all of your hard work and dedication.

Commuter Senator Jim Winfield and Vice President of Harborside Campus Affairs Rachael Curry were elected to sit on the Rules and Regulations Internal SGA committee for the remainder of the year.

A resolution was recognized from Clubs and Organizations Senator Micah Horex.

AsAP issues and concerns were addressed and the process of resolving these issues has begun, within all related external committees.

Some of these major issues include:

- Process of work study employee’s within residential halls handling residents personal mail
- Hot water issues at Edmund Hall in East Providence
- Transportation of sick students to hospitals, potential waiting list; and Sexual harassment awareness.

Senate also reviewed recently vetoed legislation, approval of Rules and Regulations by-laws, Election event plans, and committee and class reports and updates.

The minutes for the Senate meeting are available at the Student Government Association Office, CBCSI floor 1.

$500 Award for Outstanding Community Service

The 2003 Feinstein "Enriching America" Award for exceptional community service initiatives by J&W students

The Feinstein Community Service Award is a $500 cash prize awarded to a Johnson & Wales student in recognition of exceptional community service projects performed during the past year. Students may nominate themselves or be nominated by a fellow student, advisor, or faculty member. While we appreciate the excellent work that J&W students do in their Community Service Learning and work-study placements, this award is designed to recognize self-initiated service. Therefore, only non-academic projects and service above and beyond CSL and work-study placements will be considered.

To receive an application, come by the Feinstein Center at the Arcade (third floor) or email Amy Kirk at akirk@jwu.edu. The application process consists of a one-page summary of the service work and one recommendation letter from a person (site supervisor) at the community agency. The deadline for applications is April 21, 2003. Winners will be announced on May 5, 2003.

Please send all materials to Amy Kirk, Community Service Coordinator, Johnson & Wales University, 8 Abbott Park Place, c/o Feinstein Community Service Center, Providence, RI 02903 or via email akirk@jwu.edu <mailto:akirk@jwu.edu>. You are also welcome to hand-deliver applications to the Feinstein Center at the Arcade.
