Congress set on cutting funds

J&W community to face challenges

By Mathieu Medeiros
Assistant Editor

The Higher Education Act (HEA) is up for reauthorization this fall and 11 billion dollars of student loan money is at stake, according to the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU). Dr. Irving Schneider, President of Johnson & Wales' Providence Campus, is urging students to write letters to their federal congressmen and senators asking them to oppose the latest version of the reauthorization.

"This is a bill that affects all colleges in the United States, public and private," said Dr. Schneider.

Also Chairman of the Rhode Island Higher Education Independent Association, Dr. Schneider has outlined six principles for independent colleges that the HEA reauthorization should include. According to Dr. Schneider, Senator Jack Reed, of Rhode Island, has vetoed the bill.

"The basic student financial aid programs work - providing grants, loans, and work study to needy students. These programs should be maintained, adequately funded, and protected from fraud and abuse," said Dr. Schneider.

 Pell Grants are different than loans and don't have to be paid back. The House of Representatives 609 bill proposes that the maximum Pell Grant for an academic year be set at 6,000 dollars. Dr. Schneider states that the effectiveness of Pell Grants must be protected and should remain the foundation of a needy student's aid package.

According to Jennifer Pae, vice president of the United States Students Association (USSA), 39 percent of today's students are graduating with unmanageable debt, hindering their ability to establish themselves after graduation.

"Recent college graduates should be offered improved repayment options, including loan forgiveness, so that debt does not negatively affect career choice," said Dr. Schneider.

HEA reauthorization is reviewed and adjusted once every five to seven years. Budget reconciliation is a legislative process that enables Congress to try and reduce the federal deficits. According to NAICU, these proposed budget cuts are in the form of amendments to the Higher Education Act. Over 11 billion dollars in student loans could be cut.

All students in the United States who help pay for college through financial aid will be affected if this reauthorization goes ahead with Congress's current plan.

Continued on page 3

WHO IS KEN JENNINGS?

JEOPARDY! SUPERSTAR COMES TO J&W

By Jason Williams
Ideas & Opinions Editor

Jeopardy! superstar Ken Jennings visited Johnson & Wales and spoke to students Wednesday evening, November 2, in the Harborside Recreation Center. Jennings is the current Jeopardy! record holder for the most consecutive wins in the show's 27 year history.

He appeared on a number of national broadcasts, such as The Late Show with David Letterman, Live with Regis and Kelly, Nightline, and a yet to be aired segment on the children's television show Sesame Street.

Since the end of his 74-game winning streak, Jennings has been touring the country speaking to various schools regarding his participation on the show, along with his message of curiosity and the importance of trivia.

Before visiting J&W, Jennings has spoken to students at other universities across the country such as Stanford and Notre Dame. "College kids are into Jeopardy! for some reason," Jennings says, with a smile, "Old people and college kids. And I much prefer college kids to old people."

When asked how he gained such a myriad amount of knowledge, Jennings says it was mostly a matter of "just being curious of the world." He later went on to explain that while it's difficult to remember and understand information that one might not be interested in, it's easier to remember the things one finds interesting.

Jennings took the stage at 8pm in the Harborside Rec center to address a crowd of over one hundred students and staff members. He spoke to the audience for an hour about why he thinks trivia facts are so interesting and how he thinks they can bring the world a little closer together.

After his speech Jennings took questions as the audience tried to stump him with trivia questions. Jennings wasn't able to answer every question, but his intelligence and humor was present throughout.

The night ended as two members from the audience were picked to compete against Jennings in a Jeopardy! style game show. He racked up over 1,600 points in the first half of the game but contestants one female student proved to be a fierce competitor, coming in with 800 points. Each contestant was given a copy of Jennings' board game, Can you stump Ken?

After the show audience members had the opportunity to speak one on one with Ken Jennings, as well as get an autograph and take a picture. Many students proved to be avid fans, and waited in a long line to meet Ken and get autographs.

Jennings is currently in the process of authoring a book scheduled to come out October of 2006, about the history and culture of trivia and why Americans enjoy playing trivia games. "I'm a little bit late," he said, referencing his deadline to finish the book.

In jest, at the close of Jennings' interview, he asked how many licks it actually takes to get to the center of a Tootsie Roll Tootsie pop, to which he laughed. The old commercial claims only three, but he explained that a study had been done to see how many licks it would actually take to get to the center and apparently the number is around 4,000, "Tootsie pop lies," he said, laughing.
The Campus Herald Staff would like to wish all students, faculty, & staff a Safe & Happy Thanksgiving!

Thanks for reading. See you next term!

SAFETY & SECURITY Blotter

- Friday October 21, 2005
  1:17 am - Sexual Assault Off Campus
  Location Unknown: A female student reported that she was sexually assaulted by an unknown male while walking from club prov (located at 99 chestnut street) towards gage commons.

- Friday October 21, 2005
  3:15 am - Unlawful entry
  Renaissance Hall: A female stated that she and her guest were sleeping in her room in renaissance hall when an unknown person entered her room and assaulted her and her guest and then stole an iPod from the room. Providence police were notified. A suspect was arrested.

- Monday October 24, 2005
  5:30 am - Unlawful entry
  Indiana Avenue: Providence: A student reported that he awoke to find an unknown male in his apartment. The unknown person fled without incident. The student reported that several items were discovered missing from the apartment. Police were notified.

- Friday October 28, 2005
  2:30 am - Forcible fondling
  Massachusetts Avenue, Providence: A female student reported that an unknown male forcibly fondled her during an off-campus party.

- Friday October 28, 2005
  10:40 am - Unlawful entry
  Battery Street: Providence: A student reported that her apartment had been broken into between the hours of 11:00 am and 5:30 pm and items were stolen. Police were notified.
Make a Wish!

Greeks reach out to local family

By Doug Garrison
Staff Writer

They say that when you wish upon a star, it will make your dreams come true. Thanks to the Make-a-Wish Foundation, children diagnosed with a terminal illness are guaranteed to have their wishes granted, star or no star. Make-a-Wish can do this thanks to fund raising drives they hold, much like the one held in Gebe Commons on Tuesday, November 1st.

This years event was held to kick-off Make-a-Wish fundraising at Johnson & Wales University. J&W's Greek organizations hosted the event.

WBRU radio helped run the event by providing music and entertainment for the crowd of people gathered in Gebe Commons.

"It's very good that we are out here," said Matt Marinelli. "A lot of parts of the school focus on the bad sides of Greek Life and this allows us to show our good side.

Present at this event was a family whose youngest daughter, Morgan's wish came true last year.

"We stayed in the Give Kids the World Village," said Tony, Morgan's father. "There were over 900 volunteers there to cater to us and to help with whatever we needed."

Morgan's grandfather, Ray had similar comments, "Anything we needed was right there when we asked for it. We didn't even need to go to Disney to have a good time!" Their trip was paid in entirety by the Make-a-Wish Foundation, as Ray put it, "We didn't have to pay a cent."

At the Make-a-Wish Foundation's table there were quite a few things to look at including a pair of photo albums filled with pictures of Morgan's family on their trip to Florida. Also on the table was Make-a-Wish items for sale, such as t-shirts and wristbands. All the sales that night as well as all the donations placed in the collection jars went toward the Foundation's cause.

The Make-a-Wish foundation is helping children like Morgan all over the country, and J&W Greek Life is lending a hand by holding an event each month until April. In April, there will be a dance marathon as a grand finale. Last year, their hard work earned over $10,000 and two wishes granted for the Make-a-Wish Foundation. This year's goal will be three wishes granted.

If you are interested in volunteering, donating, or knowing more about the Make-a-Wish Foundation here in Rhode Island, call the state chapter, 401-781-WISH (9474), or visit their website at, www.makeawishri.com.

Translation: Nada, Zilch, Zero, "The Bubble"

What: Bowling & Billiards (2 hours)

Where: Legion Bowling & Billiards
661 Park Ave.
Cranston, R.I.

Phone: 781-8888

Provide your own transportation
(just have your J&W ID Card)

This program is available Wednesdays through the Johnson & Wales Recreation Department
A Fusion of Nutrition and Fun at the "Day of Play"

By James Browning
Guest Writer

"It was good!" One of the child exclaimed after spending the day playing games and learning about nutrition at Johnson & Wales. On Friday October 21, 2005 the Feinstein Community Service Center and the College of Culinary Arts hosted a "Day of Play" for the Paul Cuffee Elementary School at the Harborbrite Recreation Center.

Ninety-two children from kindergarten to fifth grade came to Johnson & Wales to play games and eat healthy food while learning about nutrition.

"Thank you for everything you did for us. I like milk, milkshakes, and the smoothie. I love everything!" Said one child in attendance of the "Day of Play." The children played games such as Ultimate Frisbee, Musical Chairs, Footsie Ball, Basketball Dribble, and Crab Beach Ball. Volunteers from the Nutrition Society made smoothies and trail mix for the Paul Cuffee children and explained the importance of nutrition and healthy snacks.

At the end of the day all the children took pictures with the "Goo Milt!" cow wearing milk mustaches made of vanilla yogurt and dry milk. The children were able to take a pumpkin back to school, which they decorated for Halloween in their after school program. Each child received a certificate for participating in the "Day of Play.

The "Day of Play" was the kickoff for a year long partnership between Johnson & Wales College of Culinary Arts and the Paul Cuffee School. Culinary volunteers from JWU and staff from the Feinstein Community Service Center will be presenting nutritional cooking demonstrations and activities next trimester for the children who attend the after school program. Volunteers and University staff also helped make this event a great success.

"Nutrition can be fun!" Children listen attentively to culinary students. Photo by James Browning

Is the College Yearbook a Dying Breed?

Josh Curtis
Staff Writer

Yearbooks capture memories and document all the exciting events, clubs and seniors on campus. The yearbook is a great way of cranking a whole year's worth of interest into one book with style.

Unfortunately the world that we live in today is not as instant messaging, cell phones, and other technological luxuries as it is a world where information is also available in the same book with style.

Several universities around the nation are dropping the traditional yearbook for DVs or simply getting rid of them completely. At many universities the drop in yearbook sales is a big factor in the phasing out of yearbooks.

At Johnson & Wales the school yearbook (The Johnsonian) has not given in to the wave of technology completely and still contains to produce a quality yearbook year after year. But what will keep The Johnsonian alive during these overwhelming challenges in the industry?

According to The Johnsonian's editor Jonathan Arruda, The Johnsonian is "not in a bad position." However there are many ways that the students here at Johnson & Wales can help to keep this timeless collective alive.

"Getting involved in the many available positions," Arruda suggests. "Or by getting your senior portrait taken."

The Johnsonian's office is on the third floor of the Citizens Bank Center for Student Involvement, right next to the Providence Performing Arts Center.

When asked about the new alternatives other schools are resorting to Arruda replied saying "Twenty years from now, DV players may not even be around."

When taking a glance back into history there is proof of the phasing out of electronic devices due to technological upgrades so it could be reasonable to expect that records were the big thing, and even as recent as ten years ago VHS players ruled the video world, and today they're very uncommon.

From the introduction to the conclusion a yearbook is to use the cliché, a "timeless classic" that can always be opened, whether five, fifteen or fifty years after graduation.

Bush Nominates Judge Alto to Succeed O'Connor

By Jason Williams
Ideas & Opinion Editor

President Bush nominated Judge Samuel Alito, Jr., of the U.S. Court of Appeals, on October 31, 2005, to replace retiring Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, saying, "He understands that judges are to interpret the laws, not to impose their preferences or priorities on the people."

Bush's most recent nomination comes on the heels of a devastating attempt to nominate his personal assistant, Harriet Miers, who was largely considered to be too religiously minded to be a suitable Supreme Court Justice. After a barrage of attacks from the liberal forefront, Miers withdrew as the nominee.

Appointed by George H.W. Bush in 1990, to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, Alito, 53, has been known for his conservative stances, intellectual depth, and tactful dissent in a court that has largely been considered liberal.

The Conservative leaders who spoke out publicly against Bush during the Miers proceedings have been adamant about showing their support for Alito. Largely unspoken, might be in the mold of Justice Antonin Scalia, Alito has been garnered the nickname of "Little Scalia" in recent weeks.

The Left has not been slow in their rebuttals to the Alito nomination. Senate Minority Leader Harry M. Reid (D-NV) and Senator Charles E. Schumer (D-NY) issued statements denouncing the nomination before Bush has made the official announcement at 8 AM, Monday morning.

"The nomination of Judge Alito requires an especially long hard look by the Senate because of what happened last week to Harriet Miers," notes Reid. "Conservative activists forced Miers to withdraw from consideration for this same Supreme Court seat because she was not radical enough for them. Now the Senate needs to find out if the man replacing Miers is too radical for the American people."

Alito would join the nine-member court that has only one woman and one black justice. He would be the 11th justice and the second Italian-American, after Scalia. Justice O'Connor and the First Lady urged Bush to stop the search for a female justice after the failed attempt of Miers.

According to Peter Baker, Washington Post journalist, President Bush "acknowledged the course change. We tend to learn our lessons," said one senior official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity so he could be more candid. White House press secretary Scott McClellan said that "the culture of today's confirmation process makes it very difficult for someone who comes from outside the court to be appointed." Many believe the Miers nominee was doomed from the beginning due to her lack of real world experience, having never been a judge.

Alito is a largely what the Conservatives were asking for in the first place. Miers was a corporate lawyer hailing from Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, with a limited paper trail and few known positions on volatile issues. Alito holds a bachelor's degree from Princeton University and a law degree from Yale University Law School. He has aspired to be a Supreme Court justice since his days at Princeton. Fifteen years experience as a judge in the Court of Appeals and a long paper trail of over 300 written opinions to date.

FAClS

- Age: 54
- Nicknamed "Scalito" for a conservative modelled after Scalia.
- Standing: former Reagan Administration lawyer, ruled in favor of religious holiday displays on public property.
- Experience: current judge of U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, since 1990.
- Family: lives NJ with his wife and two children.

Free Coffee!
Submit your answers to this issue's trivia quiz, be the first one to submit the correct answers and receive a Starbucks giftcard!

To submit your answers e-mail campuswheed@jwmu.edu

Hard at work: Jonathan Arruda at work in the yearbook office.

Photo courtesy of James Browning
Come listen to the riveting music of

Magdalen Hsi-Li

November 10
in the Pepsi Forum
6:00 PM

Sponsored by the Multicultural Center
ASK THE KEVIN'S
Two Kevin's, One Column

Kevin's,

No need to discuss where I got your email address from, let's just get to the point. I like this boy and he shows that he is interested in me. We live in the same town but we never go away to different schools. When we are together, we are inseparable, but then when we both go back to school he'll call me one day and say he'll call the next, but then I don't hear from him for a week or so at a time. I really like him but I don't know what to do. I need a guy's opinion. What's up with him?

Sincerely,
-Rather Confused Girl

You may be looking too far into this. Do you really want to know what's up with him? Guys may say that they will call, but won't if they know they are not going to see you any time soon. Observe, in the days leading up to any holiday break, he will start calling you more and more, this is because he knows where he can find his cake, and eat it too. The two of you are inseparable when it's convenient for him. If this truly bothers you, you should not be inseparable; you should be "separable." He might not see the relationship the same way you do. Maybe you are the perfect couple, just not in the perfect situation.

Dear Kevin × Kevin,

I need your help. I really like this guy but he doesn't even know I'm alive. I dress up and hang around the place that he works but don't seem to work. I'm kind of shy what can I do to get him to notice me?

-Clear as Glass

You are not as clear as you think you are. You need to clean your glass and create opportunities that will get you noticed. Think about getting a job at the place that he works, even if you don't have an interest in working there. To begin, ask him for an appointment. Whether they are hiring, or not, you have just initiated conversation. Your face will not be stamped around grounds won't go unnoticed. Come out of your shell and think of flirty things to say regarding your application or why you didn't get the job. Now that you have broken the ice, your glass is half full, not half empty.

The Kevin's,
Are either one of you available?
-Thank Haven for The Kevin's

Kevin: Who wants to know?
Kevin: Age/Sex/Location!

DO YOU NEED ADVICE?
We appreciate the questions, and hope to see more. Everything you send us is kept confidential, so feel free to ask us anything.

Send letters to:
E-mail: Ask The Kevin's@yahoo.com
Mail: Ask The Kevin's, The Campus Herald, Brown University, Providence, RI 02903
CBCS: Look for the Ask The Kevin's box in the left pocket of the counter at CBCS ideas & opinions

The Campus Herald Page 6

WHAT NOW?
Miers withdraws nomination

By Kevin Longo
Staff Writer

Harriet Miers' voluntary succession of her Supreme Court nomination offered President Bush an unparalleled opportunity to nominate a conservative with clear values, morals, and stamina to the nation's highest court. Our nation is in great need of a justice who will resist 'political correctness' in an effort to revolve the values of founding fathers and fulfill their obligation to strictly interpret the Constitution of the United States. The nominee must have the ability to suppress their personal ideologies and resist the temptation of legislating from the bench. Not merely an opportunity for advancement, but a test of the strength of nation is at hand. Will the new justice respect judicial precedent and the sacrifices made by so many others to better this country or will they continue the tradition of wishy-washy and frankly unpatriotic and un-American decisions, which we have been accustomed too during the past few decades? With the addition of another Chief Justice John Roberts, and the upcoming nomination/appointment of a new justice, the chances of shifting the balance of the court seems likely.

Now, more than ever, we must encourage our president and senators to support an individual who will rectify the atrocities committed by previous justices. In the past year, the court expanded the scope of domain and authorized states and municipalities to confiscate personal property not to build a highway or schools, but to encourage so-called 'economic development'. The underlying theory behind this notion of 'economic development' is actually a sophisticated scam to deflect additional tax revenue from hard working Americans and funnel the money into social programs which primarily benefit the 'have nots'.

The appointee should realize that racial and gender preferences when used in government hiring practices, state run universities, or other institutions where tax dollars are used to fund or supplement their operation. Such activities are unfair to other qualified applicants and detrimental to the organization which equates to waste of tax payer money. Tax dollars should not be given to entities who unjustly discriminate against others.

Our country was founded, in part, on the premise that individuals should have the right to practice religion freely. However, in the past several decades, voluntary prayer in school has been ambushed and since banned. Many schools have elected, despite majority opposition, to ban 'holiday celebrations'. Christmas parties have become holiday parties, and Halloween celebrations have been cancelled because of its religious roots. While no one should be forced to participate in the festivities, the majority should rule in deciding what celebrations are being held. Why should the minority, or like in most cases, a single student (or parent) ruin the enjoyment of so many others?

If you agree the characteristics above are crucial in a Supreme Court justice then you'll content with Judge Samuel Alito, nominated by President Bush, to replace Sandra Day O'Connor. Judge Alito is a man with solid values and a record of justly interpreting the law. It's vital we support a nominee such as Judge Alito who will preserve the values of our founding fathers, accept the constitution above all, and not allow partisan politics to interfere with his role on the court.

Letters to editor

Dear Editor,

I, Wildell Petteway, do not feel that the article "America's Failed Career University," written by Moa Kjedemar was a constructive piece of writing. Ms. Kjedemar makes inappropriate comments, speaks on the dress code, says "jeans hanging so low that you can see body parts you wish you didn't have to see unless you were alone at home with the person in question." She also goes on to say "girls are walking around in school with skirts smaller than their underwear." She could just as well say that students are wearing inappropriate attire not conforming to the University's dress code.

Further, when Ms. Kjedemar talks about the dress code, she says "We are all different and that is the way it should be. In a business environment you will not be able to walk around in those sloppy sweat pants." She doesn't do a good job of getting her point across here because she's saying we're all different but says we won't be able to do that in the business world.

Overall it seems like she's bashing the very University she's going to. She's basically saying how we're supposed look and act professional when we get out there in the business world. Ms. Kjedemar isn't being very professional herself, because if you couldn't care less about company you wouldn't bash that company you're working for. The title alone is unprofessional, "America's Failed: Career University."

Sincerely,

Wildell Petteway

Send your letters to the editor.
campusherald@jwu.edu

APARTMENTS
PROVIDENCE COLLEGE AREA, PEMBROKE AVE.
Large 3 Bedrooms
2nd & 3rd Floor
NEW Kitchen Cabinets, stove, refrigerator, & dishwasher
NEW Gas baseboard heating, and gas hot water
NEW Bathrooms
Cable & Internet ready
Secure area with lighted parking

On Bus Line Available
Sept. to May 27, 2006
$1,200.00 per month
CALL 274-7763

AND SO BEGINS THE LATEST "TRIAL OF THE CENTURY!"
My Musical Manifesto: Give Al a Chance

By Steven Josephson
Staff Writer

I have a confession to make: I don’t like serious music. When I listen to music that contains high amounts of angst, hatred, sadness, or other less than happy emotions, I don’t enjoy my self. Now don’t get me wrong, I enjoy listening to this kind of music on occasion, but I don’t enjoy it. I love in large or frequent amounts. I am a “Weird Al” fan, a connoisseur of the subtle art form and satirical device known as parody and a lover of the comedy music genre. I’m here to set the record straight and bring back a little bit of respect to one of the greatest comedy musicians of all time by dispelling the following myths: Weird Al isn’t a real musician, all Weird Al does is make fun of people, and Weird Al is the only person who’s ever written a parody. I shall take each of these false-hoods and expose them for the loath-some lies they are. I have stood in silence for far too long; it’s time for the world to know the truth.

Myth number one: Weird Al isn’t a real musician. Weird Al has long been criticized for lacking the ability to do anything but parody other musicians and few believe that parody is the mark of a true musician. The fact is that while Weird Al is|best (and almost exclusively) known as the prince of parody, he can and does write original work. Actually almost half of every one of Weird Al’s albums consists of original songs. Weird Al’s music is unique in that he is one of the few composers who can write some great music that is both parody and original work. His music is not just about parody, but also about social commentary. Weird Al’s music is relevant and important to people of all ages.

Myth number two: Weird Al doesn’t make fun of people. This one is probably one of the most common myths of all time, and the one that burns my biscuits more than any other myth out there. Weird Al doesn’t make fun of people; he may take a friendly swipe now and then, but he doesn’t make fun of people. He PARODIES them; parody is defined by the Encarta dictionary as, “a piece of writing or music that deliberately parodies another work in a comic or satirical way.” Nowhere in that definition does it say make fun of. Let’s put it another way: Weird Al (though he doesn’t have to) gets permission from the artists he parodies before he records his songs. Would those artists say yes to Al if they were going to be made fun of? Of course they wouldn’t, but the fact is that 95 times out of 10 they say yes and get excited about it. When Al asked Nelly if he could parody “Hot in Herre” he not only said yes, but he donated stage outfits for Al and his band to wear in concert. The last (and great) Kurt Cobain said that he knew he was a success when Al parodied “Smells Like Teen Spirit.”

Myth number three: Weird Al is the only person who has ever written a parody. Often when I tell someone I listen to Weird Al, I receive the following statement, “Oh, I got him on my iPod, check it out.” I listen to the head phone to hear the song and suddenly I realize I’m listening to a musical gem like “Feelin’ the Macarena,” “What if God Smoked Cannabis,” or “Weenie in a Bottle.” These are some of Weird Al’s songs that are created by other artists who also engage in a crude form of parody. There are other parodists out there who write these songs, share them online, and through the magic of file sharing get the songs mislabeled as Weird Al songs. Al doesn’t enjoy crude humor and makes a point not to care in any of his songs. If you are questioning a song, they may or may not be written by Al, type the lyrics in a search engine like google.com.

You will find out if it is a truly a Weird Al song. These artists deserve recognition and Al doesn’t deserve being associated with such music.

In conclusion, I’d just like to say this, Weird Al isn’t a hack, he’s a satirist, humorist dedicated to memorizing today’s pop culture with a comical view. He’s essentially the Matt Groening (creator of “The Simpsons” and “Futurama”) of music. His music has no aim but to be funny and has no point. Well maybe it does have a point, but is it a point that Al doesn’t want: it’s that rock music takes itself too seriously. I’ve always thought that rock music should be fun, and if I have any kind of mission it’s to prickle that bubble of pretentiousness a little bit. So readers remember: music can be fun, a parody isn’t the answer to the original artist, and for the love of god re-label those songs on your iPod, I can’t stand listening to the Macarena.”

Please, don’t empower our little girls

By Alexa Jungdahl
Editor in Chief

Be careful not to empower young women. If we empower young women they will grow up and want more. They may even want to participate in the competitive business world and run companies instead of bake pies and clean house. If we start telling little girls that they have worth and rights, they will think their rights are important, and this country will continue on its moral decline to hell.

That’s what conservative groups are telling. American Girl, the popular toy manufacturer that is known for producing dolls and books with messages of empowerment for young girls. Conservative groups are threatening to protest the company if it does not cut all ties with a youth organization that the company currently donates too called Girls Inc.

This controversy came about when American Girl began the “I can” campaign, selling wristbands that proceeds go to Girls Inc to help fund empowerment programs.

Girls, Inc’s message is, “inspiring girls to be strong, smart, and bold.”

God forbid that should happen. We wouldn’t want the female youth of American thinking they can actually make something of themselves. We don’t want them to think they can support themselves, avoid welfare, and be happy. After all, they don’t deserve the same rights as the rest of us.

Conservative groups, that often supported American Girl in the past because of their patriotic products, have turned the “I can” campaign into another trivial political battle. Since Girls Inc offers support regarding abortion and homosexuality, conservative groups have taken it upon themselves to lump the toymakers charitably donation into a political message. American Girl released the following statement,

“We are profoundly disappointed that certain groups have chosen to mis-

represent American Girl’s purely altruistic efforts and turn them into a broader political statement on issues that we, as a corporation, have no position,” the statement said.

The American Family Association takes the liberty to call Girls Inc, a “pro-abortion, pro-lesbian advocacy group” and encourages its 2.2 million members to contact American Girl and tell them to cut ties with the group. The Pre-Life Action League threatens their organization, and all its members, will boycott the doll company and picket in front of its NewYork and Chicago stores. These groups actually warn parents to be suspicious of the positive message American Girl and Girls Inc are sending out. Obviously, both are trying to seduce our girls and turn them in to lesbians.

“This Week In Greek”

Greek of the Week

This week’s Greek of the Week is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau sorority. She is very committed and strong woman not only in her country, but also in the JWU community and beyond. Within her sorority, she has held many positions including Pledge Tutor and the Country and Ellegante Chair, where every week she will give a short class to her sister explaining proper etiquette and any rules between each other from the real world.

This week, Greek of the Week is very active outside of her sorority as well. She is a Sharp Program student taking 5 classes every semester and her final class, she is the Volunteer Coordinator for Butten Free Golf Course where she is in charge of over 150 volunteers as well as the community outreach program. She also is in the Army Reserve where she teaches a variety of training classes and has to spend one weekend a month training.

The Greek of the Week is: Zบาง Her

Congratulations!

Did You Know?

All These People Were In Greek Organizations That Have Chapters At JWU!

- Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE)
- Ronald Reagan
- Terry Bradshaw
- Paul “The Big Show” Wight
- Deko Sigma Phi (ΔΣΦ)
- Mike Shanahan
- Alpha Sigma Tau (ΑΣΤ)
- Saty Jesy Raphael
- Zeta Phi Beta (ΖΦΒ)
- Vanessa Williams
- Deko Sigma Theta (ΔΣΘ)
- Aretha Franklin
- Keith Knight Pulliam

Upcoming Events

Attention Freshmen:

Want to learn how to join a sorority next term? Come to South Hall on 11/7 at 6:00 pm or McNulty Hall at 6:00 pm to learn how to join one of our IFC or PC fraternities or sororities!

Greek of the Week is brought to you by Order of Omega

STOP

the raid on student aid!

Tell your members of Congress not to cut student loans by $8.6 billion to pay for the deficit. Ask them to invest in the future—yours and theirs!

To contact Congress, call 1-800-574-4AID or go to www.studentaidalliance.org.

Student Aid Alliance

The Student Aid Alliance is a coalition of organizations representing students, colleges and universities, and others who believe all qualified students should be able to go to college regardless of their financial resources.

2005-2006

Creating Excellent Organizations

All Workshops Start @ 5:30pm-Pepsi Forum

Must have 2 members present for Organizational Certificate

Individual Certificates are available

"An Organizational Timeline"

October 17th: Plan for the End: Begin Your Year

November 7th: Run Effective Meetings

December 5th: Motivate & Mobilize

January 9th: Be Creative

February 6th: Resolve Conflicts

March 20th: Foster Diversity

April 10th: Transition Officers
Student Activities

401.598.1093

The Campus Herald
published every other Wednesday

October 26
November 9
December 7
January 11
January 25
February 15
March 15
March 29
April 12
May 11

Readers Wanted!

IT’S COMING.....

Johnson & Wales University
GO GREEK
www.jwu.edu/prov/osa/greek 401-598-1120

Mass & Prayers for Healing

with
Fr. Richard McAlear, OMI
Come and experience the Love of the Father & the Healing
Power of Jesus in the Eucharist

On
November 14, 2005
At the
Cathedral of SS. Peter & Paul
Providence, RI

7:00 p.m.

All tickets $10.00 each
All proceeds to benefit the Interfaith Dire Emergency Fuel Fund
By Mathew Medeiros
Assistant Editor

Singer-songwriter, painter, and cultural activist Magdalene Hsu-Li will bring her art to the Pepsi Forum on Thursday, November 10 at 6PM.

Selling over 12,000 records, her latest full-length album, Smashing the Ceiling, was released and distributed through her independent label called Chickpop Records.

In addition to performing original songs, Hsu-Li will give a lecture entitled "Redefinition of identity (Asian, Igbo, & Feminist) focus" in the Multi-Cultural Center on Friday, November 11 at 11:30AM. Following the lecture will be an additional diversity workshop at 1:30PM. A graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, Hsu-Li earned a BFA in painting. She studied jazz and classical voice, composition, and piano at Cornell College of the Arts in Seattle, Washington. She has been playing piano and writing music since she was eight and began painting when she was 15.

Her music has been compared to Tori Amos, by Curve magazine. By touring nationally with major acts such as Ani DiFranco and Macy Gray, Hsu-Li has gained a national following that is dedicated to her music. She funded her latest album by pre-selling CDs to her loyal fans. Her music is a direct representation of her heart. She underlines themes of identity, spirituality, consciousness, love, loss, and relationships. "If you want to change the world, then you've gotta change yourself," sings Hsu-Li on Change the World, the first track of Smashing the Ceiling.

"One of the problems of our society is a lack of awareness for the wealth of cultural diversity that surrounds us," said Hsu-Li. "I intend to always be defining issues of identity, raising awareness, and bringing communities together through my music and art. My primary goal as an artist is to help break through the glass ceiling in the American music industry so that Asians become accepted as artistic and commercial forces in popular music."

Magdalene Hsu-Li plays guitar and piano, as well as songs on the album that she co-produced. Guest musicians include Matt Chamberlain on drums, Fiona Apple and John Mayer, and bassist Jon Evans, of Paula Cole.

Smashing the Ceiling can be purchased at Tower Records, Borders, or online at Amazon and I-Tunes. With countless TV and radio profiles, Magdalene Hsu-Li will be one event this year not to be missed.

"We haven't had an artist like her come to this campus since I've been here. She is so diverse and inspirational that I know her performance will be extremely special and get to the core of listeners," said Tony Rogers, Director of the Women's Center.

---

By Niki Kohnicki
Guest Writer

The band with a very loyal following, Coheed and Cambria, will be gracing Providence with their presence on Tuesday, November 15 at Lugos Heartbreak Hotel.

Coheed and Cambria has been playing together since 1995, but under the name Shabtis. It wasn't until 2002 that the band came together as Coheed and Cambria, and released their first, softer punk rock, full length album Second Stage Turbine Blade.

This album also marked the beginning of a story line that is strung throughout each album, which corresponds with a comic book series that is written by singer Claudio Sanchez, guitarist Travis Stever, drummer Josh Eppard, and bassist Michael Todd. The comics, and each song, detail the lives of two characters, Coheed and Cambria, and their family living in the very distant past of our galaxy.

The albums coincide respectively with the second, third and fourth parts of the saga of Cambria and Coheed, with the introduction to be published after the final conclusion. Continuing the tale, in Keeping Secrets of Silent Earth: 3 was released in 2003. This album scored the radio hit "A Favor House Atlantic," which really put the band in the spotlight.

The bands meatful of a third album hit shelves in September of this year. Good Apollo, I'm Burning Star IV, Volume One: From Fear Through the Eyes of Madness definitely exhibits the bands' very unique flavor.

Although they call themselves a progressive rock band, Coheed and Cambria definitely let their metal, new wave and punk rock influences shine through.

With their literate and incisive lyrics, Claudio's melodic voice and the bands' very mature and detailed style, Good Apollo is sure to be a hit.

Two singles, "Welcome Home" and "The Suffering" are already getting radio play from the recent release.

---

Coheed and Cambria will be playing with Dredge, Me Without You and the Blood Brothers. Tickets are $22.00, so hurry up and get one before it sells out.

For more information about the story of the lives of Coheed and Cambria, and the band itself check out www.cobaltandcalcium.com, the band's unofficial fan club.
A Series of Fortunate

By Nicole Souza
Guest Writer

Daniel Handler (Alias Lemony Snicket) has successfully woven yet another dark tale revolving around a series of unfortunate events in his new tale The Penultimate Peril.

The title itself seems ominous enough, penultimate means 'second to last in a series or sequence', so this could be one of the last books featuring the brilliant A Series of Unfortunate Events. We will find out eventually, but for the time being one can only appreciate the brilliance in Handler's latest book. The Penultimate Peril starts with the children being taken by a phenomenon Kit Snicket (sister of the author Lemony Snicket) to the Hotel Denouement and Concealing Contests. They are told to be wary of the hotel's managers: twin brothers Frank and Ernest. While at the hotel, the children are expected to perform the tasks and duties of concierges, a front that aids them in their true task as flâneurs, a French word for one who is nonchalantly observing an event, but performs simpler tasks, while the event is taking place.

Their true objective is to learn whether the mysterious "J.S." is aiding a secret organization.

The book is well written and, though designed with children in mind, is an excellent read for adults as well. It has many hidden meanings and layers, to quote wikipedia.org. "While the books are marketed primarily to children, they are also written with adult readers in mind; the series features many references likely to make sense to adults. Many of the characters' names allude to other fictional works or real people with macabre connections."

The series is engaging enough quality to be, and Snicket (Handler) has an impressive amount of talent; not only has the author showed children the wonderful world of literature, away from the mindless action of TV, but he has taught the attention of adults.

Some see the subject of orphan children whose parents have died in a fire may be too sad for children and would prefer that adults read the series exclusively.

"The story of people of integrity struggling to find their way in increasingly dire world seems like one worth telling. Even though it's a story of us eventually experience from one point of view or another." Snicket defends his series.

The increasing popularity of the series is a sure sign that the author is right, I find that I truly connect with the Baudelaire orphans, finding myself in college, searching for a place in this world. In the series I find myself very much like Klaus, when I am reading and studying in the library, or like Violet as I finish putting together a marketing project, or even like Sunny blith- ing through my homework.

As Violet says, I thought we were finally going to answers to all of our questions, only to find out I have more questions now than I ever did.

How often do we find ourselves in circumstances like this? If you haven't yet found yourself in such a question-filled circumstance, I'd invite you to read the series, one question with every answer brings more questions, and of course several very unfortunate events.

CD REVIEW:

Platinum-haired fans of 'The OC' will enjoy 88's new release

By Corey Pierce
OSU Daily Barometer (Oregon State U)

The 88s is back with a new album titled "You Can Earn Cash". The band is made up of Steven Rice (vocals),(

You can earn cash Rewards for cutting down your cigarette smoking!

You may be eligible to participate in a research study if you are:

• a current daily smoker
• between the ages of 18-24
• enrolled in college

• Earn $785 in cash at your first appointment!

• Earn between $210 & $523 in cash by providing us with daily CO readings!

• Earn up to $175 in cash for follow-up appointments!

For more information, please contact

Polyall 444 1814 or email us at REWARDS@brown.edu

Music from Soundtrack of the Video "I'm So Excited"

Thank you for helping to make this album possible.

Copyright 2005 OSU Daily Barometer via City U-Mix

Congratulations to the class of 2009
You've completed your first term at J&Sw!

The Campus Herald Staff

POPÇON FACTS

Facts that aren't true but are good

By Steven Josephson
Staff Writer

With Judge Roberts in and another judge to come, it's a good time to think about the Supreme Court.

• The Supreme Court of the United States is also know by the acronyms SCOTUS (Supreme Court of the United States) and USSC (United States Supreme Court).

• The Supreme Court was established by the Constitution, which called for a court of six members, because the number is set by congress the number has changed over the years. It was upped to seven members in 1867, nine in 1873, but was cut back to nine (the current number).

• The first Justice was James Wilson, who joined the court on October 5, 1789. Wilson was also a signer of the Constitution.

• One of the most influential Supreme Court cases was the case of Marbury v. Madison (1803), in which it was ruled that the Supreme Court could overturn a law passed by Congress if it violated the Constitution. This ruling reinforced the "checks and balances" system of government and played a role in innumerable landmark cases.

• One of the most ambitious Chief Justices has to be Salmon P. Chase, who served from 1864-1873, Chase sponsored a reorganization of the judiciary.

• John Marshall Harlan was a Supreme Court Justice from 1877 to 1911, and was widely known as "The Great Dissenter" due mainly to his dissenting opinions in the 1883 case of Plessy v. Ferguson (1896) which effectively upheld the doctrine of "separate but equal".

• Frustrated about having many of his New Deal programs overturned by the courts, Franklin Roosevelt proposed a Judiciary Reorganization Bill, which would have increased the size of the Supreme Court from 9 to 15. This proposal was rejected by congress in the Senate.

• "To Bork" is "to destroy a judicial nominee through a concerted attack on his character, background and philosophy." The term is named after Robert Bork, who's Supreme Court nomination was rejected in 1987 after a being thoroughly attacked by the senate.

• During debate over his nomination, Bork's video rental history was leaked to the press; this led to the creation of the Video Privacy Protection Act in 1988.

• The Supreme Court is served by the court is John Paul Stevens. Stevens is 85 years old and was appointed by Gerald Ford.

• The youngest judge currently serving the court is John Roberts. At 50 years old, he is also the second-youngest Chief Justice. John Jay, the youngest ever Chief Justice, was 44 when he was appointed.

• George Washington appointed 1 judge during the course of his presi- dency, more than any other president.

• The only president who ever came close to this was Franklin Roosevelt who appointed eight justices during his terms in office.
The not so traditional: cranberry relish with sweet potatoes with pecan butter

1/2 cup 1 percent milk (approximate)
Freshly ground black pepper, to taste

In 3-qt saucepan, cover potatoes and squash with water; add 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to boil over high heat; reduce heat, cover and cook until tender, 12 to 15 minutes. Meanwhile, add 2 tablespoons butter and the sage to small skillet or saucepan over medium heat. Tilt pan and watching closely, cook about 3 minutes, until butter foams and begins to brown; keep warm. Thoroughly drain potatoes and squash, return to pan and shake 1 to 2 minutes over low heat. Roughly mash with hand masher, leaving mixture chunky. Over low heat, gently mix in remaining table-spoon butter and enough milk for consistency desired. Season with salt and pepper. Spoon into serving bowl and drizzle with brown butter and sage. Makes 4 servings (about 4 cups).

SWEET POTATOES & APPLES WITH PECAN BUTTER
1/3 cup Land O Lakes butter
1/2 cup chopped pecans

Not Everyone Eats Turkey
Vegetarian Options for Thanksgiving Dinner
By Alexis Jungdahl
Editor in Chief

Your dinner guests shouldn’t have to suffer at the family dinner table just because they don’t eat the traditional Thanksgiving turkey.
Planning a vegetarian Thanksgiving requires a little creativity, but it’s fun and easy. Take this age old holiday in to the 21st century with these vegetarian options:
• Don’t loose the stuffing! Put the traditional bread stuffing in to a scorch sauce instead of turkey, it will have lots of flavor.
• For something a little more filling then side dishes, offer vegetarian guests a pasta like pumpkin filled raviolo. Other options might be lasagna, stir fry, or a vegetarian shephards pie.
• Make traditional gravy with vegetable stock instead of meat, for a great topping.
• Dessert is vegetarian friendly Prepare the traditional pies, cakes, and cookies. Some things to keep in mind in your vegans and vegetarian guest won’t enjoy:
• stuffing that has been cooked inside of a turkey
• cheese or margarine (vegan)
• fish oil
• oyster sauce
• eggs or egg yolk (vegan)
• honey (vegan)
• milk (vegan)
• gelatin
• marshmallows
• meat gravy
• cheese (vegan)

Of course, enjoy all the meat free side dishes that the holiday has to offer. Meat eating guests will probably also enjoy these entries with a vegetarian twist. And at all costs, avoid the tofuky.

By Phenoma Correado
King Features

Most home cooks don’t worry too much about planning the Thanksgiving menu. There will be the usual mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce and relish. It’s all set — but not in stone. Keep the traditional, comforting foods, but give them a slight new twist. Who knows, they may become your personal tradition.

AVOCADO CRANBERRY RELISH
2 tablespoons white balsamic vinegar
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground white pepper
1 cup dried cranberries
1 cup 1/4-inch cubes orange and yellow bell peppers
1 cup green onion, finely chopped

For vinaigrette: In small bowl, blend vine- gar, honey, olive oil, salt and pepper; set aside.

Place cranberries in separate bowl, fill with hot water until cranberries are covered; let stand 10 minutes. Drain and squeeze dry in paper towel.

In large bowl, combine vinaigrette, cran- berries, bell peppers and green onion. Add avocado and gently fold into mixture. Makes 8 servings.

BROWNED BUTTER SMASHED POTATOES AND BUTTERNUT SQUASH
1 pound (3 medium) yellow-flesh or white potatoes, cut into 1/4-inch chunks
1 small butternut squash (about 1 pound), peeled, seeded and cut into 1-inch chunks
3 tablespoons butter, divided
8 to 10 fresh (2 to 3-inch) sage leaves, stacked and cut across into 1/4-inch strips

By King Features

Whether you buy a fresh or frozen turkey, proper cooking and handling of the bird will ensure a delicious holiday meal.

Here are some tips from the National Turkey Federation:
• Purchase one pound of turkey per person to be served. This formula allows for the holiday meal plus a little left over for the prized turkey sandwich.
• Ensure that the packaging is intact and avoid purchasing a bird with packaging that has rips or tears.
• Select the size of turkey based on number of servings needed. There is no appreciable difference between female (hen) and male (tom) turkeys in tender- ness, whitish/dark meat ratio or other eat- ing qualities.

Frozen Turkey:
• Purchase during special value sales and store the bird in the freezer until the thawing time begins.
• Store at 0 degrees F or below.
• Thaw under refrigeration, approximately 24 hours per five pounds.
• Thaw in cold water approximately 30 minutes per pound; change the water every 30 minutes. Do not use warm or hot water.
• To thaw in the microwave, follow the microwave manufacturer’s directions and begin to reheat the turkey immediately fol- lowing the microwave process.

Fresh Turkey:
• Store at 26 degrees F and above.

J&W Women's Center
dedicated to serving and empowering WMEN

The Multicultural Center presents
Magdalen Hsu-Li
November 11
Redefinition of Identity Lecture 11:30-12:20 at the MCC

Diversity Workshop 1:50-3:20 at the MCC

Drop in Hours
M, W, TH: 9:00am-7:30pm
Tuesdays: 11:00am-7:30pm
Friday: 9:00am-4pm

Location
3rd Floor CBCS5 Building
232 Weybosset Street
Telephone: 598-1138
Wildcat Watch

By Dan Booth
Sports Information Director

JWU Volleyball Advances To GNAC Semis With 3-0 Win Over St. Joseph
November 1, 2005

The Johnson & Wales University women's volleyball team advanced to the semifinals of the Great Northeast Athletic Conference tournament with a commanding 3-0 win over Saint Joseph on Tuesday evening at the HarborSide RAC. The Wildcats took the first game 30-12, the second by a score of 30-21 and completed the sweep with a 30-23 win in game three.

Leading the way for Johnson & Wales was sophomore Kalle Pflunder (Cincinnati, Ohio) who tallied 10 kills and added three digs while freshman Jessica Kanyon (Elliott, Pa.) added nine kills with a .529 hitting percentage along with three digs and three blocks. Sophomore Audra Vaccari (Winstead, Conn.) registered 33 set assists, three kills, seven digs and three service aces for the Wildcats.

Senior Jessica Dobrowski (Bristol, Conn.) led the way for St. Joseph with 10 kills and 11 digs.

With the win Johnson & Wales improves to 23-15 overall while St. Joseph falls to 7-22. The Wildcats will return to action on Thursday, Nov. 3rd when they host the winner of the Rivier vs. Emerson quarterfinal in the GNAC semifinals, starting at 7:00 p.m.

JWU Men's Soccer Advances To GNAC Championship With 5-1 Win Over Albertus Magnus
November 2, 2005

Senior Bryan Supple (Cumberland, R.I.) recorded a hat-trick to propel the Johnson & Wales University men's soccer team to a 5-1 win over Albertus Magnus in the Great Northeast Athletic Conference semifinals at Bryant University on Wednesday afternoon.

Johnson & Wales dominated play early in the game and got on the board first when sophomore Barry Phillips (West Glover, Vt.) took a pass from senior Patrik Soderberg (Lerum, Sweden) on a breakaway down the middle of the field and put a shot into the lower right corner of the net to give the Wildcats a 1-0 lead at the 12:17 mark. JWU extended its lead to 2-0 when Supple blasted in a free kick from 25 yards out after an Albertus Magnus foul at 20:46. Supple's second goal of the game, this time on an assist from fellow senior Reggie Feneus (Port Charlotte, Fla.) at 42:37 gave the Wildcats a 3-0 lead.

The team would take the three goal advantage into halftime.

Albertus Magnus cut the lead to 3-1 when senior Mike Gillman (West Haven, Conn.) put in a direct free kick at the 74:16 mark. The Wildcats responded quickly, however, when just over a minute later sophomore Justin Phillips tallied his second goal of the afternoon, putting in a shot from 10 yards out with an assist to sophomore Brian Souza (Raynham, Mass.), making the score 4-1 at the 89:43 mark when Supple notched his third goal of the day, heading in a crossed ball from junior Christopher Nye (Hubbardston, Mass.) for the 5-1 victory. Junior Benoit Blanchard (Saline, Mich.) made two saves in the win for Johnson & Wales while freshman Chris Vasquez (Nashua, N.H.) tallied six stops in the net for AMCC.

With the win Johnson & Wales improves to 14-5-1 while Albertus Magnus falls to 9-7-3. The Wildcats will travel to Springfield, Mass. on Saturday, November 5th when they will take on Western New England College in the GNAC Championship game at 11:00 a.m. The winner will receive the conference's automatic bid to the NCAA Championship.

JWU Women's Soccer Upends Simmons, 4-2 In GNAC Semifinals
November 1, 2005

Junior Leah Farrar (Uxbridge, Mass.) scored two goals and added an assist as the Johnson & Wales University women's soccer team advanced to the Great Northeast Athletic Conference Championship game with a dominating 4-2 victory against Simmons in the GNAC semifinals at Keohane Field on Tuesday afternoon.

Simmons took the early lead when Christina Aldrich chipped in a shot from 20 yards out to give the Sharks a 1-0 lead at the 12:1 mark. Johnson & Wales responded in the late stages of the first half when freshman Katie Cronin (Hudson, Mass.) took a ball at midfield, dribbled to the goal line and lifted a shot into the upper left corner to knot the game at 1-1 at the 40:08 mark. The teams headed into halftime tied at 1-1.

Johnson & Wales controlled the action in the early stages of the second half and took the 2-1 lead when freshman Desiree Rose Frassin (Babylon, N.Y.) took a pass from Farrar and put it into the lower left corner of the net at the 48:24 mark. The Wildcats then built on their lead at the 52:36 mark when Farrar scored her first of two goals, an unassisted tally to give the team the 3-1 lead. JWU's lead grew to 4-1 on Farrar's second goal of the day, this time on an assist from senior Nicole Kelley (Wantage, N.J.) at the 68:46 mark.

Simmons made it a two-goal game when Aldrich converted a penalty kick after a JWU foul in the box, cutting the lead to 4-2 at the 75:28 mark. That would be as close as the Sharks would get, however as Johnson & Wales cruised to the 4-2 victory.

Freshman Karisa Durkee (Newport, Vt.) made seven saves in goal for Johnson & Wales while Kathleen Taglieri had five stops for Simmons.

Johnson & Wales is now 12-6-2 on the season while Simmons falls to 14-2-1. The Wildcats will travel to Springfield, Mass. on Saturday, November 5th to take on Western New England in the GNAC Championship game. The winner will receive the conference's automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament.

JWU Men's & Women's Soccer Set For NCAA Division III Championship

Listen to Fanmus.

www.mygnac.com/fanmus
The interactive 'Speak Out' section of The Campus Herald is meant to provide the University community with a professional forum to voice their ideas and opinions. To submit a question or opinion, email campusherald@emu.edu.

Levi Tanksley-Jr.
S.E.E.

"Jimmy Carter or Nelson Mandela for all their world wide relief efforts to stop world hunger & famine and trying to create peace & end countries with civil wars."

Elise Staffier-Jr.
S.E.E.

"Oprah Winfrey. She helps a lot within the communities."

Jesse Garcia-Jr.
Accounting

"Bill Gates."

Lindsay Baeis-Sr.
Marketing

"Michael J. Fox."

Ryan Delaney-Jr.
Criminal Justice

"Dr. Phil."

Jenny Hurwitz-Sr.
Retail Market Mgmt.

"Oprah Winfrey. She helps people not only in America but overseas by visiting 3rd world countries and bringing awareness about the rest of the world through her show."

Robert Pierce-Sr.
Food Service Mgmt.

"No. The times are different. No one else will have an effect like she did. Currently Bill Clinton is the only other person that did something courageous like her."

Nicole LaFerriere-So.
Computer Graphics

"Probably, just not in the same situation as she was in."

Alyse Ragaglia-Fr.
S.E.E.

"I don't think anyone will because racism is not as big of a factor in life like it was back then."

Jeremy St.Yves-Jr.
Food Service Mgmt.

"Bill Gates because he just donated a quarter of a billion dollars to charity."

Brittany Figuiredo-Jr.
Food Service Mgmt.

"Ty Pennington from Extreme Home Make Over."

Carrington Lopez-Fr.
Entrepreneurship

"Nobody cause a lot of people are afraid to speak out like she did. Rosa is the originator and there will be non greater."
Variety Classifieds

Money for College
The Army is currently offering sizeable bonuses of up to $20,000. In addition to the cash bonuses, you may qualify for up to $70,000 for college through the Montgomery GI Bill and Army College Fund. Or you could pay back up to $65,000 of qualifying student loans through the Army’s Loan Repayment Program. To find out more, call (401) 831-6970.

Help Wanted
Ben & Jerry’s - Scoopers wanted.
Part-time, flexible hours with opportunity for advancement. Apply in person at Providence Place Mall food court.

Spring Break '06 Don't Get Left Out!
Now Hiring Reps: Organize a Small Group & Travel Free!

Book Early:
Free Meals Free Parties Great Flights
Acapulco, Bahamas, Barbados, Cancun, Florida, Europe, Jamaica, South Padre & More!

www.sunsplashtours.com
1-800-426-7710

---

King Crossword

ACROSS
1. Contrabassoon cousin (11)
5. Potential spy (8)
8. Requests (9)
12. What beach goes “catch” (6)
13. Way back (8)
14. Old pony (10)
15. Actor Baldwin (13)
16. Loose of all stripes, maybe (14)
18. Ignores, e.g. (3, 3)
20. “Mission: Impossible” name (9)
21. Juror, theoretically (6)
23. Raw rock (4)
24. Corduroy (11)
28. Hat (7)
31. “... been robbed!” (4, 5)
32. Pictorial power (10)
34. Pineapple pivot (13)
35. Right on the map (7)
37. Wicker-cased bottle (7)
39. Chop accessory (4)
41. Prank (5)
42. Played slowly (9)
45. Interstellar cloud (7)
49. Madness (9)
51. Raised (11)
52. State for sure (7)

DOWN
1. Charged bit (5)
2. “...” Hat (5)
4. Rolling stone’s lock (8)
5. Snip (10)
7. Ohio nine (7)
8. Summer flowers (5)
9. Heel type (5)
10. Former sur- vey general (7)
11. Without (5)
17. Discoverer’s cry (9)
18. Whisp (8)
19. Bring up (10)
22. Glad like a juryist (9)
24. Couplet’s speciality (7)
25. Zia’s sis (7)
26. Mates (8)
27. Cuddler (10)
29. Lead-in (5)
30. Corral (6)
31. Fashion (8)
32. Princeton’s team (7)
33. Small-scale wholesaler (6)
34. “Piano” group (7)
35. Earn-related (9)
36. Incite (9)
38. Holds in the mix (9)
39. Defendant’s letter (5)

Weekly SUDOKU

by Linda Thistle

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th>3</th>
<th>7</th>
<th>8</th>
<th>4</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>7</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td></td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>5</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>7</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>1</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Place a number in the empty boxes in such a way that each row across, each column down, and each small 3x3 box contains all of the numbers from one to nine.

Difficulty This Week:

* Moderate  Challenging  HOO BOY!

Answer Key: Don't cheat!

---

TRIVIA TEST

Lyrical Mix Up

By Alexis Jungahl, Editor in Chief

Finish the lyric and correctly identify the artist and song name.

1. “And I wish you joy and happiness, but above all this...”
2. “... this place is old, it feels like a beat up, I turn the engine, but the...”
3. “Weeze-a-oo I see just like the Baddy Hot, oh-oh...”
4. “Swing, swing, swing the spinning step, you wear those shoes and I’ll wear that dress...”
5. “I swung on to my old guitar. Grabbed hold of a subway car. And after a rocking, raging, rolling ride I landed up...”
6. “But we need some definite answers. So I thought I would write you a poem. The question to everyone’s answer, is...”
7. “You can dress me up in diamonds. You can dress me up in dirt. You can throw me like a line-man...”
8. “A loaded gun, complex, cook it and pull it...”
9. “You try to scream but terror takes the sound before you make it...”
10. “Memphis...”

Be the first person to e-mail the correct answers to campuserald@wvu.edu and receive a gift certificate to Starbucks!

LAST WEEK’S WINNER: Emily M. Noll - Student
The Campus Herald
The Student Run Newspaper of J&W

Producing for the J&W community
every other Wednesday.
Read every issue!

Currently recruiting staff members.