Family Weekend Cruises into JWU

The parade was followed by JWU's Rockin' Family BBQ. Even though the rain was a threat, the food was able to lighten people up, contradictory speaking. Later that night was casino night at the Harbor-side Academic Center where they had priz-es for people who attended. It was a legitimate casino with craps tables, black jack dealers, and many more. Surprise, surprise, Fun Enterprise was there to capture the moment with their "pick your own background" green screen picture taking section. Megan Amico, '10, was part of the crew working at the casino.

It was great to see parents enjoying spending time with their families at an atmosphere.

Freshman Greg Redfield

Leading Men's Cross Country

A year after capturing the 2008 GNAC conference championship, the JWU men's cross country team is off to another promising start. They began the season with a 4th place finish at the Roger Williams Invitational on September 12th held at Colt State Park. Freshman Greg Redfield (Penfield, NY) led the Wildcats, finishing third overall with a time of 16:27. Sophomore James Vance (Newton, MA) also turned in a strong performance, finishing in sixth place with a time of 16:33. In the team's next competition, the UMass Dartmouth Invitational on September 19th, the Wildcats finished 14th overall out of 37 teams. Greg Redfield led the way again, finishing with a time of 25:21 over the five mile course. James Vance also turned in another commendable performance, finishing with a time of 26:17. The Wildcats turned in arguably their best overall team performance of the young season September 26th, finishing in 1st place at the Elms Invitational in Chicopee, MA. All five runners finished in the top seven, with Redfield continuing his unbelievable rookie campaign by setting a course record with a time of 27:04 over eight miles. James Vance finished in fourth place with a time of 27:57 while fellow sophomore Nathan Smith (Jamesburg, NJ) finished fifth at 28:37. Freshman James Hartman (Osseo, MN) and senior Ron Guenard (Cumberland, RI) finished sixth and seventh respectively with times of 28:53 and 29:12. The JWU men's cross country team turned in another impressive performance in the Pop Cromwell Invitational national on October 3rd in Westham, MA. Greg Redfield was spectacular yet again, finishing in first place overall with a time of 26:31. The Wildcats finished in second place with 69 points, just behind host Gordon College who won the team competition with 62 points. All five runners finished in the top 20, with James Vance coming in 6th place with a time of 27:19 and Nathan Smith finishing 17th at 28:06. James Hartman and Ron Guenard finished 20th and 25th respectively, with times of 28:09 and 28:15.

Greg Redfield's dominance so far this season has garnered him GNAC conference runner of the week honors twice already, most recently for the week of October 5th. The team looks to be hitting its stride at the right time under head coach Tom Spurr as they look to defend their conference championship title. The team's next meet will be at the St. Joseph's of Maine Invitational on October 10th at 11:00 AM.

Mens Soccer Looks to Improve from Their Loss

A schedule is always hard for a team. Everyone on the team knows that you’re going to have your highs and lows, your wins and losses, good days and bad days. So far this season the Wildcats have only seen a loss. With two wins under their belt they are looking to come out on top of a very difficult schedule.

Head coach Mike Trudeau said, “Part of the issue is we play an extremely difficult out of conference schedule. Most of our games are against teams that were either in the top-25 in the country last year, in their conference championships or had made the NCAA championships. We prefer to play against stronger teams, thereby ultimately making us stronger.”

The Wildcats are looking ahead for the rest of their season where they will be facing Emmanuel College, Lasell, and Rhode Island College.

Next game coming on the road at Clark University in Worcester. M.A. Clark is currently 8-3 this season, a bit of a difference from JWU’s record of 2-8. As Coach Trudeau stated, they are taking their losses in stride and learning from this experience. Currently on the team they have a total of 12 athletes who are either freshmen or sophomores. This relatively young team is led by their seniors/captains Eric Flath (Warwick, RI), Scott Kirschner (Irvine, CA), and Dennis Gold (Cleveland, OH).

Coach Trudeau also said that the overall quality of his team is better than previous years and he says that every teammate plays a vital role on the team. For the rest of the season the Wildcats are going to be looking for that GNAC conference berth. Their long term goal along with many other teams is too progress far enough to make the playoffs yet again. Last season the Wildcats made it to the first round of the GNAC playoffs and are hoping to make it even further this year.

The Wildcats currently play off campus at Pierce Stadium located in East Providence, Rhode Island. Along with all other sports on campus they would love to see a lot of fan support at each and every one of their games. A fan bus is always a possibility for request by transportation, as well as the RIPTA, which every student rides for free can take you there as well.

JWU Women’s Volleyball Defeats Mount Ida, 3-2

Dan Booth
Director of Athletic Communication

The Johnson & Wales University women’s volleyball team posted a 3-2 victory against Mount Ida in a Great Northeast Athletic Conference contest at the Harboride Recreation Center on Wednesday evening.

Mount Ida posted a 25-17 victory in the first game before Johnson & Wales rallied to take the 2-1 lead after a 25-19 win in game two and a 22-20 win in game three.

The visiting Mustangs knocked the match at 2-2 with a 25-23 win in the fourth game of the evening. In the fifth and deciding game JWU jumped out to the 9-3 lead and then took the 15-10 victory.

Junior Nikki Balduzzi (Brockton, Mass.) led the way for Johnson & Wales with 12 kills and a match high 20 digs while junior Catherine Bravo (Tina Baja, Puerto Rico) added 13 kills and 12 digs for the Wildcats. Freshman Kasey Higgins (Wallingford, Conn.) recorded 37 set assists and nine digs in the victory.

Freshman Christine Gallatt (Germanstown, Md.) paced Mount Ida with eight kills and six digs while senior Amanda Perretta (New Bedford, Mass.) added six kills and 18 digs in the setback. Freshman Kiera Ferret (Keene, N.H.) notched 19 set assists and 18 digs in the loss for the Mustangs.

Johnson & Wales is now 12-13 overall and 4-1 in the GNAC while Mount Ida falls to 12-8 overall, 5-4 in league play.

Eden Forty Nine Provides Exceptional Food and Service

While I was driving down Division Street toward the South Shore, I came upon a little restaurant with a sign that read "Eden Forty Nine." It was a small place, about the size of a corner store, with a small patio out back. The inside was cozy and inviting, with soft lighting and comfortable seating.

As I walked in, I was greeted by a friendly host who showed me to a table in the back. The restaurant was almost empty, but I decided to try it anyway. I ordered a glass of wine and a salad to start.

The salad was fresh and delicious, with a variety of greens, nuts, and cheese. For my main course, I ordered the steak au poivre. The steak was perfectly cooked, with a nice crust on the outside and a tender center.

The prices were reasonable, and the service was attentive and friendly. I would definitely recommend Eden Forty Nine to anyone looking for a great meal in an intimate setting.

Overall, I had a great experience at Eden Forty Nine. The food was delicious, the atmosphere was cozy, and the service was excellent. I highly recommend giving this restaurant a try if you're ever in the area.

Celebrity Chef Sundays Gets Cooking

SAMANTHA KEWROAT
ASSISTANT EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Starting on Sunday, October 11th, Foxwoods Casino will be hosting Celebrity Chef Sundays for three consecutive weeks during October. Each weekend, a different celebrity chef will demonstrate his or her favorite recipes in a cooking show. The show will be broadcast live on the casino's television network.

The first weekend's featured chef is Guy Fieri, known for his popular Food Network show, "Diners, Drive-Ins, and Dives." Fieri will be cooking up some of his favorite dishes, such as his signature burger and spicy Margarita chicken.

The second weekend's featured chef is Emeril Lagasse, known for his energetic cooking style and his many cookbooks. Lagasse will be demonstrating his famous Louisiana-style cuisine, including his famous blackened salmon and crawfish etouffee.

The third weekend's featured chef is Ina Garten, known for her "Barefoot Contessa" show on the Food Network. Garten will be cooking up some of her favorite recipes, such as her famous macaroni and cheese and her easy dinner recipes.

Tickets to the cooking shows are available for purchase at the casino's website, and the shows will also be streamed live on the casino's Facebook page. For more information, visit foxwoods.com.

I Hope They Serve Beer in Hell

Author: Tucker Max
Director: Bob Gosse

STEPHANIE LYMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
JAMIE TANG
STAFF WRITER

Self-Proclaimed a-whole Tucker Max’s first book has turned into a silver screen de-bacle. “I Hope They Serve Beer in Hell” a NY Times best seller for four years in a row, is now a Darko Entertainment box office bomb, only grossing $922,503 domestically, as of October 4th.

The book first published in 2006 is a collection of Max’s stories with everything ranging from the time he drove into a donut shop to his lifetime ban from Embassy Suites. I originally picked this book up from Border’s because the guy on the cover wasn’t bad looking and the title was hilarious. As I scanned the back and inside of the book, I soon realized that I needed to read it and quick.

During the summer of 2008 I read page after page of some guys wild and crazy college stories that usually end up with him treating women like dirt and then sleeping with them. I also was hooked and could not put the book down, nor could I keep from laughing because everything in it was absolutely hilarious. The things he would say and get away with like the night he got so drunk and was still not legal to drive the next morning were unbelievable.

Nobody does things like that and I was absolutely caught up in the world of a guy who everybody hates so matter what they say, until they read his book they see that he’s kind of a genius. Another thing that made Max’s book so intriguing were his friends, with friends with the “Tucker given” name of Stingblade, Hate, and Credit, you’re never short of a laugh from anyone of those guys.

The central plot of the whole book if you can even call it that is Max getting drunk hitting on women and then sleeping with them. Though there are some funny stories in between, like the time he punched a girl doing a keg stand or the time he and about five of his other friends almost got killed a biker bar. I thoroughly enjoyed this book and absolutely recommend it for anyone if they want something to finish in two days and have probably the most fun they will ever have reading.

After reading the book, I had some high hopes for the film adaptation since the screenplay was also written by Tucker Max. Sadly, I was a left a bit disappointed. I’m a “I can-distinguish-between-the-mediums-of-movies-and-books” type but the movie just didn’t do it for me.

I enjoyed his ridiculous antics portrayed by Matt Czuchry. (If you’re wondering why he looks or sounds familiar, it’s because he played Logan on Gilmore Girls) Other familiar faces include Geoff Stults (7th Heaven), Kerri Lynn Pratt (CSI, Jack & Bobby), and Jesse Bradford (Flags of Our Fathers, Bring it On).

Brian lodge from www.IMDB.com re-warded the movie with a 1/10 star rating. "...for all the talk of the realism of the dia-log, it sounds fake... Movies are supposed to be about escape and I just couldn’t relax into a world where this guy gets away with so much crap and basically walks away un-scathed, having learned nothing.”

The beauty of this story is that it’s meant to seem unrealistic. I mean, would you be-
After reading "Letter: Fourth Amendment Not Applicable at JWU" [Sept. 30, 2009], I felt compelled to submit a response in order to shed some light on this misrepresented subject. According to the opinion of fellow student Christopher Pratt, Johnson & Wales Residential Life violates the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution by conducting the bi-weekly Health and Safety Inspections that students living on campus are subject to. Like Christopher, I am also a great believer in Civil Rights and the protections that the U.S. Constitution provides to the American people. However, critical evaluation concludes that the argument made in this article is flimsy at best.

The Fourth Amendment of the Constitution was meant to protect the unlawful search and seizure of property and housing that you personally own. As students living on campus, Johnson & Wales owns the housing that we live in and it is our responsibility to act accordingly to the rules of such housing. Therefore, as the supervisory department in charge, it is not unlawful for Residential Life to conduct the inspections of JWU property. The Office of Residential Life has the right to impose such a procedure in order to ensure the safety and security of all students on campus that Johnson & Wales cares for, not only those who live in a residence hall. It is an act of intentional protection.

I am currently a Senior and it is my fourth year as an on-campus resident. From experience, I know that the bi-weekly Health and Safety Inspections do not infringe our privacy as students. There are restrictions in place that prevent Residential Life from searching certain areas of our living space unless there is proper cause. These restrictions protect our privacy. Furthermore, students are well aware of the inspections before they even arrive at JWU for their Freshman year. It is communicated to students at the beginning of each year during orientation and hall meetings. It is also publicized in the Student Handbook and in the Guide to Campus Living. Both of these documents are available and highly recommended for parents and students to read. Furthermore, we give permission at the time of move-in for Residential Life to perform these necessary inspections and agree to any consequences that result from us breaking the rules of our housing contracts.

Additionally, the writer of this article clearly does not fully understand the purpose of the bi-weekly Health and Safety Inspections. Assessing the living spaces of residents is not only about checking for prohibited items such as alcohol. The RA’s and CA’s are not in place for the sole purpose of “busting” someone. It is a way for Residential Life to connect with residents and help us facilitate in improving our lives. If they just wanted to “bust” residents, they would not give us all fair warning by posting a sign and telling us each week when they are going to be doing the inspections. Therefore, if you are in possession of an item that you are not supposed to have and get caught with it during bi-weekly Health and Safety Inspections, you rationally have no one to blame but yourself. Knowledge is power and ignorance is no excuse.

Johnson & Wales Golf Places Tied For Fifth At Bison Invitational

DANIEL BOOTH
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETIC COMMUNICATIONS

The Johnson & Wales University golf team finished tied for fifth with a score of 327 at the Nichols Bison Fall Invitational at the Green Hill Golf Course on Sunday afternoon. UMass Dartmouth took first place with a score of 319 over the par 72 course that measured 6,483 yards.

Johnson & Wales was led by sophomore Tim Welak (Laconia, N.H.) who finished tied for ninth with a score of 80 while junior Steve LeDouce (Rehoboth, Mass.) carded an 81 to finish in a tie for 16th place. Freshman Scott Boutin (Lincoln, R.I.) was in 20th place for the Wildcats with a score of 82 while sophomore Zach Stefanik (Pembroke, Mass.) finished with a score of 84, good for 27th place among the 60 golfers in the tournament.

JWU Women’s Tennis Downs Saint Joseph of Connecticut

DANIEL BOOTH
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETIC COMMUNICATIONS

The Johnson & Wales women’s tennis team defeated Saint Joseph of Connecticut, 7-2, in a Greater Northeast Athletic Conference contest at the Moses Brown Courts on Monday afternoon. The Wildcats swept the doubles matches to take the 3-0 lead and then won four of six singles matches to secure the victory.

Freshman Haley Nutter (Sylvania Township, Ohio) was perfect on the day, recording a 6-0, 6-1 win at No. 1 singles and teamed with sophomore Laura Schweik (Ottumwa, Iowa) for an 8-4 win at No. 1 doubles. Schweik also had a 6-1, 6-0 victory at No. 3 singles. Sophomore Dana Trimbore (North Wales, Pa.) and freshman Aubrie Poe (Ringgold, Ga.) each had two wins on the day for the Wildcats. With the win, Johnson & Wales is now 4-6 overall and 3-3 in the GNAC while Saint Joseph falls to 4-9 for the season, 1-5 in league play.
