Brief History of Marliave's

The business was started by Henry C. Marliave, who came over from Paris in 1868 and started a small restaurant back of the United States Hotel. An interesting fact in connection with this is that he was the first one to serve a table d'hote dinner in Boston.

He occupied this location for four years, being burned out by the great Boston fire of 1872, after which he again opened a restaurant back of the old Boylston Market.

Failing in health in 1878 he closed his business and went to Hot Springs, Arkansas, returning to Boston in 1882 when he opened the new well-known place on Bosworth Street.

In 1895 Mr. Marliave died, and the business was continued by his wife, under the management of Mr. Charles up to the time of their deaths, in 1904. Thereafter the business was conducted by Mr. E. W. Wight, nephew of Monsieur Marliave.

In 1934, Tony Rossetti and Albert Amadei acquired the restaurant. Following the retirement of Tony and Albert (1950 and 1969 respectively), Tony's son, Roy, took over and has continued the same policies which have made the Cafe Marliave famous.
