

Calamity Jane was born Martha Jane Cannary, May 1, 1852, in a north Missouri town. No one knows for sure how she got the name Calamity Jane; we do know she was the hardest drinkin, tobacco chewin, poker playin, bull whippin, horse breakin, manly lookin, great cookin, female buckaroo the west ever did see. From Arizona to the Black Hills they knew Jane and her tales of being a Pony Express rider, a scout for General Custer, friend of Buffalo Bill and married in a secret ceremony to Wild Bill Hickok. To the people of the Wild West she was part of the great legend that celebrated the freedom and daring of the West in it's early days. Calamity Jane took the big sleep in 1903 at the age of 51. She is buried in Deadwood, South Dakota near her pardner Wild Bill Hickok.
