HAWAII, which Mark Twain called "The loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean," is a stop on TWA's around the world routes. An emerald green oasis arising from the blue Pacific, her landfall bids a welcome port of call today, just as she did for the whaling vessels and other seafarers through the centuries. Plan to visit Volcano National Park, home of the famous live volcano "Mauna Kea"; the 418 foot Akaka waterfall; the vast pineapple and sugar cane plantations, and the Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor.
