

MADHATTER

Who or what is the Madhatter?

Yes, he was the weird man in Alice in Wonderland, who wore an unusually large top hat and played games with the young and innocent Alice. However, there is more! The origins of the Madhatter comes from England and the story goes like this:

In 17th century England there was a group of men known as hatters who made hats for a living. The hatters labored day and night to produce quality head wear. They were also in the business of cleaning the hats they made and mercury was used in the process. After several years of breathing the mercury fumes, the hatters gradually went mad.

But, we are not quite sure whether it was the mercury that was totally responsible for all the madness. It seems to be that even today, any person that wears a hat is a little different.

Remember W.C. Fields, he always wore a hat. Charlie Chaplin? Laurel and Hardy? These guys had character, and a little madness.

Their hats made them what they were—happy Madmen. Remember, madness is happiness and there is a little Madhatter in all of us.

Wear a hat and be happy!
