Iva Ousterhout's famous chicken dinners have been served since 1938. She originally prepared her chicken dinners for the oil-rig workers who rented rooms from her. Word-of-mouth traveled fast and, shortly, others wanted to enjoy her delicious meals.

Over the years, Iva has had three kitchens built along with additions to accommodate an ever increasing number of patrons who come from all over the state to enjoy "Iva's Chicken Dinners". Although Iva is no longer preparing the meals, her niece, Monica King, maintains her high standards in the kitchen. As in the past, they serve fresh, pan fried chicken accompanied by homemade mashed potatoes, coleslaw, gravy and biscuits.

Thanks to Iva and her niece, you can still enjoy home-style chicken dinners served in an atmosphere reminiscent of days gone by.
