Covino named director of Student Activities

Liz Covino, formerly the Assistant Director of Student Activities at Bryant College in Smithfield, RI, has been named Director of Student Activities at J&W, replacing Robert Doyle.

Covino, a graduate of both the University of Connecticut and Framingham State University, says that among her goals for the upcoming year are to increase the visibility of her office and to get more student input on the types of events they would like to see at J&W.

Covino said she would help in her new position.

"My duties at Bryant College included the planning of a new student union building and entertainment and other activities," she said. "I see some overlap in my responsibilities here and I hope to be able to draw on my experiences while performing them."

Covino said she first got involved in this type of activity while an undergraduate at UConn. "I was on the campus entertainment board and I decided that I liked it and felt I could make a career of it," she explained. "So while I was attending Framingham State I got involved in a two-year graduate position. After receiving my Master's I applied at Bryant and got the job."

"My favorite part of the job are that you get to do something different every day and working with the students," she added. "It helps to keep you young."

Covino said she currently observing the operations of the Student Activities Office to "find out its role on campus."

Franchini, Hicks receive Escoffier Scholarships

Culinary Arts students Paul A. Franchini and William S. Hicks were awarded scholarships by the Les Amis d'Escoffier Society of New York at the Society's recent dinner held in New York City.

Franchini, a first-year Culinary Arts major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Franchini of Voorheesville, N.Y. A graduate of Voorheesville Junior Senior High School, Franchini is also a member of the Wine Tasting Club and the Chopper's Club.

Hicks, a second-year Culinary Arts major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Niest of Fremont, Ohio. A graduate of Ross Senior High School, Hicks is a member of the Silver Key Honor Society and has participated in J&W's Co-op program.

Also representing Johnson & Wales at the Escoffier Society Dinner were Dr. Stanley Nicas, Lars Johansson and Thomas Wright.

State internship program offers students close up look at politics

After the past 10 years students from Johnson & Wales have participated in the Rhode Island State Internship Program and this year isn't any different. J&W students Tarsha Fitzgerald and Teresa Torres are currently gaining a first-hand look at the political system while participating in the program.

Fitzgerald, a fashion retailing student, is assigned to Lt. Governor Richard Licht's Office where she assists the Lt. Governor in tracking legislation and with special projects such as the Citizens' Box and the Computer Literacy Project.

For Fitzgerald, participation in the program is a natural extension of her interest in politics. "At home I worked for Mayor William D. Schaeffer's office. (Shaeffer was mayor of Baltimore at the time and is now the Governor of Maryland.) And I've always been involved in student government," Fitzgerald said.

Teresa Torres, a hospitality major, is assigned to the Department of Business Regulations. "It's been an interesting experience," Torres said. "I've enjoyed working with the people in the office and I think I've learned a lot about the Department.

"I would certainly recommend that other students get involved in the program if they have the chance," Torres said.

Both Torres and Fitzgerald agree that one of the highlights of the program is meeting new people. "Because other colleges are involved in the program you get a chance to meet students from all over the state. It's interesting to compare what they think about the issues with your own beliefs and it's fun to make new friends," Fitzgerald said.

The program is administered by the Commission on Rhode Island State Interns and the Academic Advisory Committee. Together they ensure the students a valuable practical experience working in a state agency as well as a required academic component which demands both reading and short paper assignments.

Allegra, Simmons win Basketball Shootout

The Annual J&W Basketball Shootout, held Sunday, March 20 at the Student Center Gym attracted some of the best deadly shooters on campus.

The Women's Shootout was won by Wendy Allegra with 24 points. Stephanie Morris finished second with 23 points and Michael Hale finished third in this exciting competition with 21 points.

In the Men's Division, Tony Simmons walked away with first place with 23 points. Chris Grant was second with 14 points and Bob Guire finished third with 12 points.

Congratulations, Wendy and Tony, and to all who participated in the event.

Napoleon Hill's SECRETS OF SUCCESS

Editor's note: The following article is a reprint of an article which was written by Napoleon Hill. This is the final installment in the Napoleon Hill series.

Let habits work for you

All of your successes and your failures are the results of the habits you have formed. There are two types of habits — those which we form deliberately and voluntarily for definite purposes; and those which we form unconsciously by the chance circumstances of life, through lack of an organized philosophy or work-plan by which to provide an ordered life.

Both of these types of habits operate automatically, once they have been accepted by the individual; both are directly controlled by the great universal which I call "cosmic habit-force."

It seems quite evident to me that cosmic habit-force is the overall controller through which Nature directs all of her laws. Through it she maintains the existing relationship between the atoms of matter, the stars and planets in the heavens, the seasons of the year, sickness and health, life and death. It could not be otherwise because a thought is translated into its physical equivalent.

You, of course, know that Nature maintains a perfect balance between all of the elements of matter and energy throughout the universe: that the maintenance is systematic, automatic and orderly. You can see the stars and planets move with perfect timing and precision, each keeping its own place in time and space.

You can see that an oak tree grows from an acorn, always, and a pine tree grows from the seed of its ancestor. And you know that Nature never makes a mistake and grows a pine tree from an acorn, nor an oak tree from the seed of a pine.

These are facts you can see. But do you recognize that they do not just happen by chance — something has to make them happen. That something is the power which fixes habits and makes them permanent. Man is the only creature which the Creator permits the privilege of using his own habits to suit his own desires.

We are ruled by habits, all of us! Our habits are fashioned upon us by repetition of our thoughts and acts.

Therefore we can control our earthly destinies and our way of living only to the extent that we control our thoughts. We must direct them to form the sort of habits we need to secure our mental maps to guide our lives. Good habits which lead to success can be ordered and used by any individual. Bad habits can be broken and replaced by good ones at will, by anyone.

The habits of every living creature except man are fixed by what we call instinct. This places them under limitations from which they cannot escape.

The Creator not only gave men complete, unchallengeable control over the power of thought, but with this gift came the means of possessing thought power and directing it toward any desired end.

The Creator has also given man another privilege whereby thoughts are made to clothe themselves in their physical likeness and equivalent. Here, then, is a profound truth. With it you may open doors to wisdom and live an ordered life; you will be able to control those factors necessary to your success.

The rewards available to the person who takes possession of his own mind power and directs it to definite ends of his own choice are great in number.

 Cosmic habit-force works no miracles, makes no attempt to create something out of nothing, nor does it suggest what course anyone should follow. But it does help an individual — nay, it forces him — to proceed naturally and logically to convert his thoughts into their physical equivalent by using the natural media that are available to him which are related to his thinking.

When you begin reorganizing your habits and building new ones, start with the success habit. Put yourself on the "success beam" by concentrating your daily thoughts on whatever you desire. In due time these new thought habits will lead you unerringly to fame and fortune.

Business Division summer program registration sheets are available in Business Dean’s Office

Students interested in summer school may pick up information and sign up sheets at the Business Dean’s Office, Academic Center, room 203. The sign-up sheets will be available April 4 through April 15. It is important that if you sign up during those dates if you seriously intend to attend either summer session. Final determination of actual course offerings will be based on student responses as evidenced by sign up tallies. Some offerings may be cancelled. Please note all pertinent information on the schedule as well as the sign up forms. Pay particular attention to course times, courses meeting over both sessions, registration fees and payment due dates. Note the administrative assessment to those signing up and subsequently choosing not to register and attend. The latter is necessary because decisions to run courses are based on sign up responses. Students subsequently backing out on their initial commitment may have an adverse effect on the administrative decision to run a particular course.

A finalized list of course offerings will be posted in the Dean’s Office window the week of April 18. Adjustments for cancelled courses may be made at that time.

Sea Fare Inn Dinner Raises Scholarship Funds

Pierre Franey, New York Times food columnist and a past Distinguished Visiting Chef at J&W, was guest of honor at a scholarship fund-raising dinner last Monday, March 21, at the Sea Fare Inn in Portsmouth, R.I. Over $7,000 was raised for the College’s Sea Fare Inn Scholarship Fund.

Reviewing the menu of Greek Acheiropoiesi cuisine before the dinner were, left to right, hosts George and Anna Karousos, President Morris J.W. Gaede, and Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Franey. Several J&W student volunteers assisted with the dinner’s production and service under Chef Karousos’ direction.

Tuition increase to take effect September 1988

In letters mailed last week to Johnson & Wales students and parents, President Morris J.W. Gaede announced an increase in college tuition and fees effective September, 1988.

The new Providence tuition rate is $6630. Room and board for Business resident students will increase to $2976 and for Culinary Division resident students to $2676. (Room and board charges in Providence had not increased since September, 1985.)

The Comprehensive Fee for students in Culinary Arts, Baking & Pastry Arts and the first year of Food & Beverage Management will be $1794.

Branch campus students in Charleston, S.C. and Norfolk, Va. have also been notified of tuition and fee increases on their campuses as well.

In announcing the increases, Dr. Gaede pointed out that the College is enjoying “one of the most dynamic and challenging periods in its 74-year history.” He cited the addition of new facilities — including the Xavier Complex and the Culinary Arts Academic Center — and the expansion in faculty and staff as “necessary to insure that our students receive the best possible education.”

Dr. Gaede noted that the College is currently looking at ways to minimize future tuition and fee increases through outside funding and stressed that under the College’s Guaranteed Tuition Plan students in Providence are subject to only one tuition increase while continuously enrolled at Johnson & Wales.

If you have any questions or would now like to apply for financial assistance, contact the Financial Planning Office on the second floor of the PAR Building, 274 Weybosset St. In addition, you are reminded that the Career Development Office has a number of listings for summer and part-time job opportunities to help you meet college costs.

To Your Health (from page 8)

Also, nicotine and caffeine are stimulants and may interfere with sleep. In conclusion, you need just enough sleep to feel refreshed and rested though some people require more sleep than others. Only you can determine what your own personal sleep needs are. If you and your roommates are on separate work/school schedules, try to compromise on a “quiet time” so that everyone has the opportunity to get quality sleep, i.e., from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., no talking, music, except with headphones, typing, visitors, etc. and post the quiet time on your door so that others will know not to disturb you.

If you still have difficulty sleeping after trying the above, seek professional help. Many techniques can be learned, such as relaxation therapy, autogenic training, or self-hypnosis, so that you can "think" yourself to sleep; or you might have a physical problem, such as sleep apnea in obese men, that is preventing you from getting your ZZZ’s.

TO YOUR HEALTH

By Joan Burbridge, R.N., Health Services Staff

Bring On The Sandman

Having difficulty getting a good night's sleep? Don't worry. There are things you can do to get back on track.

Researchers agree that it is best to maintain a regular sleep pattern, but missing an occasional night's sleep causes no physiological damage. Loss of sleep does not impair performance on complex or interesting tasks but decreases the ability to perform routine tasks and minor chores.

When we fall asleep, we enter non-REM (rapid eye movement) sleep Stage 1, then we go deeper into Stages 2, 3, and 4 (deeper), and then we ascend through 3-2-1 REM stage (the stage with the most neurological and dream activity). The entire cycle, 1-2-3-4-3-2-1-REM, is repeated every 90 minutes during the sleep process in 90-minute cycles.

Loss of REM sleep adversely affects mood and mood, while losing non-REM sleep affects physical recuperation. Sleeping directly after studying enhances your mood and learning is most effective two to four hours after waking. You can't make up lost sleep by sleeping more — it's best just to return to your normal sleep pattern.

If you are worried about something, you might have problems getting to sleep; however, once the stress is dealt with, the insomnia usually passes. During times of disease, distress, and depression, the need for sleep increases.

Some helpful hints:
1. Go to bed when sleepy.
2. Reduce excessive noise.
3. Get a moderate room temperature (60-65 degrees is best).
4. Don't go to bed hungry.
5. Eat a light, bland snack such as cheese and crackers, cereal and warm milk, a piece of fruit, or milk or camomile tea.
6. Exercise during the day but not right before you sleep — the adrenalin release will stimulate you.
7. Establish a regular sleep schedule.

You should get up at the same time even if you can't get to bed at the same time.

7. Do regular pre-sleep rituals such as relaxation exercises, warm drinks, a hot shower or bath or read an uninteresting book. Doing this night after night teaches your mind and body to associate them with sleepiness.

Don't read or study in bed — this associates the bed with the wake state.

Don't take sleeping pills — most contain amphetamines that interfere with REM sleep.

Don't drink alcohol to fall asleep — it interferes with REM sleep and causes restlessness.
