Every so often, it pays to dine at a no-frills place where the food is good and the price is right. That's just what we found at the Dockside in Malden, a sport's restaurant and bar that offers basic food at below average prices.

We visited twice, on a Saturday and Thursday, and both times were greeted by a friendly, attentive waitstaff. The atmosphere at the Dockside, a sister-restaurant to the Boston restaurant at Faneuil Hall, is fun. Pennants from major league sports teams, pictures of sports heroes, and covers of Sports Illustrated cover the walls of the restaurant and bar. There's even an area for competitive diners to shoot hoops, throw darts or play table hockey. For the creatively talented, karaoke competition runs from 9 P.M., to 1 A.M. on Saturdays, with hundreds of prerecorded songs just waiting to be sung by soon to be discovered Maldenites. For kids, there are coloring books to pass time before dinner. For the hungry, there's an ample menu and nightly specials that promise to leave everyone feeling like a winner.

From the "Warm Ups", and "On Deck After Three," sections of the menu, we opted for a cup of house chowder ($2.50), an appetizer combo ($6.95) and Italian mozzarella sticks ($4.95).

We found our starters more adequate. The chowder was a rich, creamy base chock full of clams, easy on the potatoes with only a slight hint of onion. The appetizer combo was pleasantly garnished with celery and carrot sticks on a platter of very hot Buffalo wings, two tender pieces of boneless chicken, and two slightly dry potato skins topped with cheddar cheese and bacon. What can you say about mozzarella sticks? We liked them., Seven deep-fried sticks were served with a choice of marinara or pesto sauce, adding zest to an otherwise standard starter.

The menu contains such teasing selections as "Icing Salads" ($4.75-$6.25), "Sandwich Score Board" ($5.25 - $6.50), "Burger Line" ($4.95 - $5.95), "The Pizza Bowl" ($5.25 - $10.95) "The Little League Menu" for children ($2.95 - $4.95), and for adults an extensive entree menu of fish, beef and chicken dishes under the curious title "Par For The Course" ($6.25-$9.95).

Nightly specials are also offered with such bargains as a cheeseburger, french fries and a 16-ounce beer for $5 or as one we tried, sauteed lemon chicken ($6.95). We found the chicken delightful. Tender chunks of chicken were glazed in a soft lemon sauce. A portion of rice pilaf mixed with carrots and celery was served alongside. Like other entrees, a crisp garden salad was served, garnished with tomatoes, crispy carrots, cucumber, and served with a choice of dressing.

From the specials, we also tried the 10oz. New York steak teriayki ($8.95), this choice was adequate. The steak was tender but not as moist as we prefer, but the small dish of teriayki sauce made this pick one we could season to our own taste. We ordered baked potato with it, and were not disappointed by the steaming, large spud.

We also tried the bacon cheddar burger ($5.75) a juicy burger served as rare as we ordered it and smothered with cheddar cheese and two crispy slices of bacon. Thickly onion rings, fried to a golden glow, were served along side.

Diners at the Dockside may end their evening "In The Bull Pen" with a dessert roster ranging from a simple dish of vanilla or chocolate cake, or as we picked, ice cream pie, a sensational layering of Oreo cookie crust filled with chocolate chip ice cream and topped with whipped cream.
