Artisan Cheese Menu

Artisan Cheese Sampler 9 (Choice of Four Cheeses)
Cheese Tasting 3 (One Cheese)

Fleur du Maquis (Brin d’amour)
Country: France  Milk: Sheep  Texture: Semi-soft
Named for the brambly underbrush growing on the island of Corsica, Fleur du Maquis (Flower of the Maquis) resembles this scrub. Also called Brin d’amour (A Bit of Love). This island made cheese is a beauty to behold! A beautiful white sheep cheese covered with a layer of dried ground herbs and rosemary spikes. Small and flavor packed. The cheeses are packed with whole dried peppers and juniper berries. The interior of the cheese is a creamy, soft, snowy white with a sweet rich flavor - creamy and herby. As it ages, the flavor becomes nutty, olively - but not aggressive.

Humboldt Fog
An aged goat cheese with a delicate layer of ash horizontally through the middle. The edible rind is coated first in ash, then soft-ripened with a bloomy white rind. When cut, it is reminiscent of our early morning fog.

Stilton with Lemon Zest
White Stilton with lemon zest. A mild cheese with the refreshing taste of lemon. This cheese works well on a cheeseboard and is perfect as a dessert cheese. The lemon gives it a slight sweet flavor. Definitely not Blue Stilton! Enjoy with a crisp glass of white wine before or after dinner.

Tour de Marze (Brie)
Country: French  Milk: Cow  Texture: Semi-Soft
A beautiful, creamy, French brie. At 60%, just short of a triple-creme. Acclaimed as one of the world’s great cheeses, Tour de Marze is characterized by an edible, downy white rind and a cream-colored, buttery-soft interior that should "ooze" when at the peak of ripeness. Mushroomy aroma with a garlicky, nutty flavor.

Boschetto al Tartufo Bianchetto
Country: Italy  Milk: Cow  Texture: Semi-Soft
Boschetto is about as amazing as a cheese gets. Its base is a sweet, tender and mild cheese made from a careful balance of cow’s and sheep’s milk. Mixed throughout are shavings of rare white truffle that transform the cheese into a powerfully addictive delicacy. The master cheesemaker at II Forteto has struck a precious harmony between the pronounced, pungent taste of the extremely scarce (and expensive) white truffle and the blended milk cheese. The result is a scent and a flavor that simply bowls you over with delight.

Laura Chenel Aged Goat Cheese
The American goat cheese craze can be traced to Laura Chenel who, in 1980, took her fresh, sweet, French-style cheeses to Chez Panisse, Alice Waters' Berkeley, Calif., restaurant-cum-gastronomic shrine. Soon after, American goat cheese was catapulted, side by side with California cuisine, into the culinary stratosphere. Chenel's cheeses, like the vast majority of American goat cheeses, differ from the goat cheeses many Americans have experienced in France. Most French goat cheeses are strong-smelling ("goaty"), aged cheeses.

Le Plaisir
Country: France  Milk: Cow  Texture: Semi-Soft
Le Plaisir is a generous cheese that just melts in the mouth. Its soft, creamy paste releases a subtle fresh taste full of delicate flavour. Le Plaisir is the cheese of gourmets. Taste it as you like it : if you dote on fresh, creamy cheese you should try Le Plaisir when it is still young.

Cabrales
Country: Spain  Milk: Cow, Goat & Sheep  Texture: Hard
A rough-rinded Spanish blue cheese. A renowned blue cheese from Northern Spain (region of Asturias) Cabrales is made from blended cow’s, goat’s and sheep’s milk (not in winter when only cow’s milk is available). It is matured in naturally-formed caves and has a creamy texture, a complex flavor and a powerful bouquet.

TAPAS MENU

A tapa literally means a lid or a cover. In the south of Spain it is customary when buying an alcoholic drink in a bar, to be given a small plate of something to eat. This may consist of a few olives, a couple of small fried fish, some cheese, cold meat, potatoes in 'aioli' sauce, etc. That is the tapa. In some bars, the waiter considers it a part of his art to choose the tapa most appropriate to the drink being consumed, and the taste of the consumer. I have heard a theory from a reliable source that the name tapa came about because the little plate was placed over the glass, like a lid, possibly to prevent flies from getting into the drink.
