First, malted barley is milled, then conveyed through an auger into the grain hopper.

The grist is then wetted as it is funneled into the Mash/Lauter Tun where the mash is held at 148°-155°F to allow for enzymatic conversion of the malt's starch into fermentable sugars.

The resulting extract, or "wort", is then transferred to the brew kettle to undergo boiling and hop addition.

After the boil, the wort is whirlpped then transferred to a fermenter via a heat exchanger to cool the wort.

Yeast is then added to carry out the fermentation.

After fermentation, the beer is transferred to conditioning tanks for aging.

The beer is then filtered and moved into serving tanks for distribution to the customer.

A GOOD BEER IS HARD TO FIND

If you've been searching for fresh and flavorful beer, something more interesting than the bland quasi-pilsner beer you've been drinking - Congratulations. You just struck Gold... and Amber... and Brown... and Porter and more...

Open since 1994, Oaken Barrel is a brewpub - a combination restaurant and brewery. It is a throwback to a time before Prohibition, when restaurants made everything from scratch, including the beer.

Oaken Barrel's FRESH ales are handcrafted on-site by Brewmaster Brook Belli. Belli is a graduate of the prestigious Siebel Institute of Brewing in Chicago. He has won numerous brewing awards, including a silver medal for his Razz-Wheat at the 1995 Great American Beer Festival - the Super Bowl of beer.

Belli takes pride in both the quality and variety of his brews. Using a tiny, 7-barrel system, Belli has produced nearly 30 different styles of beer in just two years. His specialty brews have included a Scotch Ale, Belgian Tripel, Pale Boak and even a Dandelion Mead.

Because of poor distribution, it is difficult to find imported or microbrewed beer that hasn't already lost its original flavor. The best way to capture FRESH beer with FULL flavor and VARIETY of style is to visit your local brewpub. We're glad you did today. Enjoy.

Where The Beers Are

Oaken Barrel Brewing Co.'s beers are handcrafted in small batches right here in Greenwood, Indiana. Our fresh and flavorful ales are proof that all the really good stuff is a little harder to find... but usually worth it.

Having recently added brewing capacity, Oaken Barrel is rolling out its beers to local restaurants. Oaken Barrel beer is available (on draft only) at a growing number of restaurants and bars throughout central Indiana.

With limited distribution, Oaken Barrel beer may be a little hard to find, but it's really easy to drink. Look for it wherever you go. Happy hunting.

Meridian Street

This German-style lager is the perfect invitation to microbrewed beers. Meridian Street is smooth and refreshing with a light golden color and clean, crisp finish. Oaken Barrel's best-selling beer on-site, Meridian Street taste great with everything on the menu. 4.5% alcohol by volume.

Go Big or Go Home

Big Red

A clear step up from the bland and watered-down pilsners, this beer has a flavor as big as its logo. Smooth and malty, Big Red is the favorite among mid-palate drinkers. In contrast to other dry beers, Big Red really is red and really is good. 5.5% alcohol by volume.

Don't Be Afraid Of The Dark

LeRoy Brown

This flavorful brown ale proves everything you know about dark beers to be wrong. Not heavy, bitter, or syrupy, LeRoy is handcrafted with premium malted barley and the oldest sweetener in the world - honey. Clover honey naturally enhances the depth of the malt for a rich, smooth taste. 6.0% alcohol by volume.

Indy's Berried Treasure

Razz-Wheat

This Americanized version of a Belgian fruit beer won a silver medal and national recognition at the 1995 Great American Beer Festival. Brewed with fresh Oregon Raspberries, Razz has a slightly sweet flavor and clean refreshing finish to quench even the biggest thirst. 5.0% abv.

Bite Into One

Snake-Pit Porter

Not for the uninitiated, this robust ale is dark, rich, and oaky. Somewhat bitter with a big and chocolatey malt flavor, the Snake brings the kind of flavor that drinkers of single malt Scotch or straight black coffee appreciate. Imported chocolate, crystal and black malts give this beer its deep ruby color. 5.6% alcohol by volume.

Watch the Special Board

Seasonal Specials

Oaken Barrel has produced a wide array of seasonals including an Oktoberfest, Pale Ale, Pale Red, English Bitter, Belgian Tripel, Holiday Ale, Scotch Ale, Mead, Double Black, Mai Beer, Peach Ale, Cherry Ale, Barley Wine and more.

Please ask your server about the current specialty brews.
