The Finnius T. Bogg
Story

Once upon a time, there was a young adventurous chap named Finnius T. Bogg. While growing up in the temperate clime of Nova Scotia, he dreamed of far away places. Determined to escape his hum-drum existence, he decided to head south. Finnius knew that he wanted considerable space around him and knew that this space should be unspoiled in its beauty. Traveling by horseback did not avail Finnius of the panoramic view he needed to find this chosen spot, so he ventured forth to a hot air balloon. It was in this way that Finnius found the spot in which you now find yourself. Not so much because this was the chosen area, but rather because it was here that the balloon had sprung a leak.

It was upon this spot that the local Indians taught Finnius how to cultivate their local favorite — the cranberry. Finnius found ways of using this fruit as a juice, in a bread and in other ways too numerous to mention. It was because of his love of the cranberry that the local townspeople nicknamed him MR. CRANBERRY BOGG.

It was again upon this treasured bog that he founded this unique family style food emporium, vowing to give back more to the community than he took away. It is here today that you will receive the benefit of that.
