The Legend of the Winking Lizard

'Twas the day before the flood,
Noah sensed a rain blizzard.
He had two of each species,
But only one lizard.

"I hath bears, bugs, and blue jays,
Two dogs and two deer,
But, alas, the poor lizard,
She's lonely, I fear."

So Noah turned every rock,
For ten miles around.
But in spite of his effort,
No male could be found.

God then appeared and he said,
"Hey, use thy noodle.
What doth thou useth for brains...
Last fortnight's strudel?"

"Now take thy girl lizard,
And make her erotic.
Yes, those male lizard rogues, they
Like the exotic."

So Noah rouged up her lips,
And painted her nails,
Then he doused her with perfume,
And powdered her scales.

She was a sight to behold
But Noah was think'n
"Why, sexy eyes are the key...
She ought to be wink'n!"

She tried hours and hours
That girl could not wink.
Yes, all she could manage was
A non-sexy blink.

Noah's patience was ended
He'd curse and he'd cry
And in a fit of high rage
He kicked at her eye!

Then she blinked, then she winked and
fore Noah did sail,
She winked once again and.....To!
She found her male!

The wink of the lizard
Is now not a myst'ry
Even ours in the tank
Are just part of the hist'ry.

It's not a kick to the eye
If that's what you're think'n
No, it's a generous tip
That gets our lizards wink'n.
