"Will you teach your children what we have taught our children?
That the Earth is our mother?
What befalls the Earth, befalls all of the sons of the Earth.
This we know;
the Earth does not belong to Man, Man belongs to the Earth.
All things are connected like the blood that unites us all.
Man did not weave the web of life, He is merely a strand in it.
Whatever He does to the web, He does to himself."
