One legend claims that wine was discovered by a neglected member of a Persian king’s harem, who tried to end her loneliness by drinking from a jar marked "Poison" containing grapes that had fermented. She felt so much better after drinking the liquid that she gave a cup of it to the king, who named it "The delightful poison" and welcomed her back into active harem life.

Wine like a human being, is born, passes through adolescence, matures and grows old. Some wines are aristocrats, some plebeians, but most wines are just sturdy, honest, good fellows. Yet all are interesting; the more so as one gets to know them better, because no two vintages of the same wine, or any two wines, are ever identical. Each has individuality. There are family resemblances and characteristics that can be recognized quite readily, but the more one studies the subject and notes these intriguing differences, the more you will enjoy your wine.
